CHP warning: heaviest drinking night of the year!

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Want to be part of a minority? Try driving on New Year's Eve without drinking anything stronger than black coffee.

Officials guess that at least half of the people on the road late tonight will have had something to drink.

It's no surprise then when California Highway Patrol officers say that about half of all accidents — fatal and injury — involve drinking drivers over the course of the year.

Sgt. Dorsey Hoffman of the CHP's central Los Angeles office said exact figures on drinking drivers "are hard to pin down." But he said there is little doubt "that New Year's Eve is the heaviest drinking night of the year."

Highway patrolmen also like to point out that their primary concern is not the sterotype drunk.

"When we're looking for people causing accidents it's not your typical drunk," said Sgt. John Savage, public affairs officer for the patrol's headquarters in San Bernardino.

"It's not those people plastered and stumbling around. They don't usually get that far. They might climb behind the wheel and doze off or back it into a ditch.

"The people that cause accidents are not the ones weaving from one side of the road to the other but maybe a couple of feet."

Law enforcement officials are aware of the increased alcoholic consumption that the holiday season brings and they prepare for it. The CHP mobilizes its officers statewide on the holiday weekends, canceling days off.

Different areas take different approaches to the problem.

In San Bernardino the patrol has a special "X-shift" late at night when the drinkers are out that concentrates only on spotting and stopping drinking drivers.

In the Orange County area, the CHP has teamed with the sheriff's department and local police.

Savage said the job of the holiday "X" patrols in San Bernardino is only to look for drinking drivers. They leave normal patrol situations to others. They concentrate on the late night and early morning time from 9 p.m. or 10 p.m. to 3 a.m. or 4 a.m., because that's when most of the drunks are on the road.

"They work the areas around bars, areas where statistics show high rates of drinking driver accidents."

The normal procedure is to increase the number of officers on certain shifts, Savage said, but in his area "we do it on the regular schedule and put more people on the road at specific times.

"It's not new," he said. "But we try to publicize it, tell people we're going to be there, and hope it cuts the problem down."

Gerry Maxwell of the CHP in Orange County, explained the procedure as "selective enforcement.

"You play the odds. The statistics show where there are accidents so that's where you concentrate.

Savage and other lawmen emphasize that the people who cause accidents "are average people. It's not the criminal type you think about."

He explained, "eight ounces of gin or bourbon or scotch in an hour and a half and you'd probably be legally drunk. That's not too much — four martinis — and it's not that hard in an hour and a half."

It isn't difficult for someone with a sharp eye to spot a drinking driver, Maxwell said.

The first thing patrolmen look for is a little weaving.

"If it continues you can rule out certain things — like maybe the driver just dropped a lit cigarette in his lap or turned around to swat a kid."

Other signs involve slow reaction to changing lights and clumsy responses in traffic, Maxwell said.

Patrolmen may then stop the driver for a quick sniff at his breath and perhaps, if the aroma is right, a reflex test. If the tests show impairment, the driver is taken in for a blood sample or other scientific test.

Maxwell said lawmen have noticed one change in drunk drivers. They seem to be getting younger.

"It seems the age is getting lower. It used to be uncommon to have teenagers involved but now it's becoming common," said Maxwell.

In 1974 there were 3,550 accidents involving fatalities in California and more than one third of them involved drunk drivers, CHP statistics show.

Maxwell said about 17 per cent of the fatals were between 15 and 19 years old.

"You hear a lot of talk about the drinking driver," said Maxwell. "This year there's quite a lot of emphasis on it because of information that shows alcohol abuse on the increase and certainly driver's are involved."

He said, "I want to emphasize that we're not just out after people. The law doesn't say you can't drink but it does say you can't drive drunk."

Heavy damage reported as 'quake rocks Greece

PATRAS, Greece (AP) — An earthquake jolted western Greece today, causing heavy damage to towns and villages, but there were no immediate reports of deaths or serious injuries, police said.

Most of the damage was reported south of Lake Trikhonis and Messolonghi. The villages of Ano and Kato Makrinou were said to be leveled. About 1,500 persons live in these two villages.

Hundreds of homes were reported damaged in other nearby villages, leaving several thousand persons homeless.

Power lines collapsed, cutting off regular communications, but police said they were in radio contact with the worst-hit area.

Police said the quake registered 5.8 on the Richter scale, which measures ground motion as recorded on seismographs. A quake registering 6 on the Richter is capable of severe damage.

The earthquake, which followed three light tremors, rolled through the area for about 25 seconds and sent residents of this city fleeing their homes and offices.

Three old houses in the center of Patras collapsed in a heap of dust. Cars parked nearby were damaged, but no one was reported hurt.

Hundreds of buildings in the Navpaktos and Aitolikon areas were damaged as balconies fell in a heap of rubble and walls and windows cracked.

The government immediately began dispatching tents, blankets and medicine to the stricken area.

One woman was reported injured by falling debris in a village near Nafpaktos in which nearly all the buildings sustained damage.

The epicenter was reported in the province of Aitolokarnanias, about 105 miles northwest of Athens.

Rabin, Ford will huddle in U.S. over Middle East

WASHINGTON (AP) — Israeli Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin will visit the United States next month for an in-depth discussion with President Ford on the Middle East, a presidential spokesman said today.

Deputy Press Secretary John Carlson said Rabin has accepted an invitation from Ford to visit this country from Jan. 27 to Feb. 4. Carlson said Rabin will hold talks with other U.S. officials and visit several cities in addition to Washington.

The visit will provide an opportunity for Ford and Rabin "to discuss in depth the current situation in the Middle East," Carlson said, and will "serve to symbolize the close relationship between Israel and the United States."

Announcement of the visit came after Israeli officials said their country is withholding a final decision on whether to attend a U.N. Security Council debate Jan. 12 on the Middle East until Foreign Minister Yigal Allon completes talks with U.S. leaders in Washington.

Brisk, windy holidays predicted for valley

Brisk weather with gusty winds will usher in the new year in the valley, and the chances are it will remain that way throughout the weekend.

It will be a clear, though chilly, morning, with the temperature in the mid-30s to low-40s, to view the Rose Parade in Pasadena. But the mercury may rise to the mid-50s by the time the Rose Bowl games begins.

The weatherman said Santa Ana conditions will prevail today and Thursday, with strong winds coming from the Mojave desert.

Government agencies on all levels will be closed Thursday, as will virtually all stores in the valley. But they expect to be open Friday as usual.

Trash will be collected on a holiday schedule, a day late, with Thursday's collections taking place on Friday and Friday's scheduled pickups delayed until Saturday.

The California Highway Patrol is placing extra men on duty for the long weekend to assure a safer holiday. Police said there will be no tickets issued to drunk drivers. Anyone arrested on that charge will spend the holiday in jail.

Agency says 40% of U.S. mercenaries are women

SAN DIEGO (AP) — The Mata Hari business is booming and nearly half the mercenaries hired by an Anaheim agency are women, says the agency's director.

James A. Scott, director of El Kamas Enterprises, said in an interview Tuesday that women make up 40 per cent of the substantial number of the soldiers and spies-for-hire that his agency sends to work in South America, Asia and Africa.

"They are particularly good in intelligence work and we have used female pilots and demolitions experts."

And it's not something that grew out of the women's lib movement.

"Uncle Sam has had women with these skills on his payroll for many, many years," he said.

Meanwhile, the San Diego Evening Tribune disclosed that it had received several calls from women interested in becoming mercenaries through El Kamas.

But while the agency readily accepts qualified women, it will not accept the typical former serviceman. Both Scott and his senior aide, G.J. "Longo" Tartaglio said the average ex-GI isn't professional enough to make it as a mercenary.

"We had three people killed by their employers in Africa because they weren't mature enough to realize that looting and rape is against the code," said Tartaglio.

Tartaglio said El Kamas does business only with non-Communist countries.

"Our loyalty is to the United States and its interests," he said. "We don't send people to work for Communists."

Love isn't only for the young

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP) — Women aren't the only ones plagued with heavy breathing anonymous telephone calls.

An elderly gentleman, who did not wish to reveal his name or exact age, complained to General Telephone Co. that he'd been the unhappy recipient of a series of such annoying calls.

The company traced the calls and found they'd come from a nearby home, occupied by a widow in her late 60s.

The woman said she'd been dating the old man and didn't like it when she saw other ladies come visiting — so she made the silent phone calls to interrupt whatever it was they were doing.

The company said Tuesday the woman had promised to stop the practice and no charges were filed.

All parties were mum on the status of the romantic relationship.

Incumbents in 4 valley cities won't run again

By BOB NAGEY
PB Staff Writer

Decisions by incumbents in four cities not to seek re-election to City Council posts March 2 have thrown municipal contests wide open throughout the valley.

A six-day extension of the nomination period in those cities where not all the incumbents are running for re-election closed Tuesday.

No incumbents have filed papers for council seats in La Verne, Upland and Chino. Only two of the three incumbents are running for election in Walnut, and legally only one incumbent is running for office in Claremont, even though there is no contest in that city.

In Ontario, San Dimas and Montclair, where the incumbents seek re-election, the nomination period closed last Wednesday.

A total of 63 candidates are seeking 26 posts in eight cities in the valley. Residents of Pomona will not go to the polls until next year, because Pomona is a charter city.

The Claremont election is a complicated affair in which the three candidates — all serving as councilmen at present — are running unopposed. But only Mrs. Elanor Cohen is officially an incumbent, running to succeed herself.

The other two councilmen lost that designation when they switched candidacies for offices. Frank Hungerford, an insurance broker, decided not to succeed himself for a four-year term, and filed instead for an unexpired two-year term vacated by Gene Block last summer. Richard Newton, the appointee to the council last July, then filed for Hungerford's four-year office.

But the lack of activity in Claremont is more than offset by action elsewhere.

The hottest election is expected in Ontario, where 19 persons are after three vacancies on the council.

But lively electioneering is also expected in Walnut, where scrap metal dealer Paul Sackin took out nomination papers Tuesday and returned them for filing only minutes before the deadline. He and five others seek three seats.

Strongly conducted contests also are expected in La Verne, Upland and Chino cities where no incumbents are running for council offices.

Those cities and their respective council candidates are:

LA VERNE — Two seats, no incumbents running: Robert Neher, a La Verne college professor; Robert Garcia, an engineering aide for the Metropolitan Water District; James Hayslip, a retired hospital administrator, and Melvin Belcher, a Cal Poly professor.

UPLAND — One vacancy, no incumbent: Jerry Morris, a Cal Poly student; Isabel Contreras, a manufacturing clerk; Howard McGarry, an official with the state department of corrections, and William L. Bottin, a management consultant.

CHINO — One vacancy, no incumbent: Russell Folds, and airline customer representative; Pete Garcia, a dairyman; Richard Marlo, businessman, and Louis Monsivais, a general contractor.

In Walnut, Sackin and five others are seeking three offices. The other candidates are Councilmen Joe P. Dyer and William Cotten, as well as challengers Joe H. Hahn, a General Dynamics engineer; Charles Richardson, an Edison Co. administrator, and Paul Williams a marketing supervisor.

Mamie Eisenhower ill, is rushed to hospital

GETTYSBURG, Pa. (AP) — Mamie Eisenhower, 79, widow of President Dwight D. Eisenhower, became ill today at her farm home and was taken to Walter Reed Army Hospital in Washington. A friend quoted her doctor as saying, "It is serious."

The nature of her illness was not immediately disclosed.

Mrs. Eisenhower's son, John, contacted at his Phoenixville, Pa., home, said he preferred that any announcement on her condition be made by her doctor.

The doctor could not be reached for comment.

Mrs. Eisenhower was hospitalized last March at the Army Medical Center at Ft. Gordon, Ga., for internal bleeding. Doctors reported the bleeding was caused by diverticulosis of the intestine.

She also has a rheumatic heart and arthritis.

Her husband died six years ago.

Mrs. Eisenhower's grandson, David, and his wife, the former Julie Nixon, are in China on a vacation.

The Eisenhower home is near the famed Gettysburg battlefield.

Nuclear test delayed again

MERCURY, Nev. (AP) — Brisk, swirling winds have forced another postponement in the firing of a powerful nuclear device underground at the Nevada Test Site, the shot now set for after New Years Day.

Dave Miller, a spokesman for the federal Energy Research and Development Administration, said scientists would reevaluate the weather conditions Friday and try to schedule a firm time for the blast.

Code-Named "Muenster" the blast will have a yield of between 200 kilotons and one megaton of TNT, at least 10 times more powerful than the blast that leveled Hiroshima during World War II.

New police corps ready for any emergency

SACRAMENTO (AP) — The state did not come up with the idea of a special National Guard police corps because of the San Francisco police strike, Brown administration spokesmen say.

But the 1,000-member Law Enforcement Assistance Force (LEAF) could be called in to patrol streets if civilian officers walk off the job, the spokesmen agree.

"That's one possibility," said Bill Stall, Gov. Edmund Brown Jr.'s press secretary.

"But it's not necessarily the main reason behind the concept. The idea is to have a group ready to handle all types of contingencies — not just strikes," he said in an interview Tuesday.

Capt. Michael Teilmann, the guard's public affairs officer, agreed with Stall.

The LEAF program was announced last week by the administration.

Under the proposal, certain Air and Army National Guard military police units have been designated as a special force designed to respond quickly when state aid is requested in a civil disturbance or emergency.

Maj. Gen. Frank Schober, California National Guard commander, said he came up with the idea shortly after taking office in June. San Francisco police and firemen staged their walkout in August.

"The genesis of the force was my idea," he told reporters at a news conference Tuesday. "It just so happens that this strike occurred."

He denied a charge by the Peace Officers Research Association of California (PORAC) that LEAF was designed primarily as a strike breaking force in police walkouts.

He said he agreed with PORAC that LEAF could not be viewed as a way to resolve strikes.

Schober said Brown wanted him to come up with ways of using the guard in civil emergencies without repeating the mistakes of Kent State and Watts.

The guard responded with the LEAF concept, Schober said, under which guardsmen with some training in police tactics would be given additional training and provided with civilian-style equipment.

Douglas Cunningham, executive director of the state's Office of Criminal Justice Planning, said last week that Brown was concerned about the San Francisco strike when he approved the plan.

Cunningham said Brown was dissatisified with the two alternatives available to him if state aid had been needed to maintain order during the San Francisco walkout.

He could have sent in highway patrolmen or regular National Guard troops.

Highway patrolmen might have resisted going to San Francisco because they would have been viewed as strikebreakers and use of regular guard units in battle dress might have represented "an intolerable level of escalation," Cunningham said.

He said LEAF members could "go in and appear on the streets without making everyone think that Armageddon is here."

Schober said said LEAF members will receive 40 hours of special training on such things as California law, arrest procedures and crowd control.

Training will stress the need for use of the minimum force necessary during a civil disturbance, Schober added.

LEAF members will wear military dress uniforms, pistols, night sticks, and motorcycle-style helmets instead of traditional battle gear. And they will ride in sedans rather than jeeps.

Teilmann said regular guard units could be called in for additional assistance if more than just LEAF units were needed to quell a disturbance.

Three more farm labor vote victories for UFW certified

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Three more farm labor representation elections, all United Farm Workers victories, have been certified by the state Agricultural Labor Relations Board.

They raised to 87 the number of elections certified from the more than 360 held on individual ranches since California's new secret ballot union law for farm workers took effect in late August. Certification means the winning union can begin bargaining with the grower.

The latest certifications were for UFW wins at Salinas Marketing, a row crop grower; Sam Barbic, a Delano-area row crop grower; and Ernest Perry, a Stockton-area tomato grower.

To date, 66 UFW and 14 Teamster victories have been certified. Other certifications include four no union victories, two by the Fresh Fruit and Vegetable Workers union and one by the Christian Labor Association.

In a separate farm labor development, Kern County Superior Court Judge John Nairn Tuesday ordered a rose nursery to allow union organizers access to the property before and after work and at lunchtime.

The UFW had complained that officials of Armstrong Nursery of McFarland refused to follow the ALRB'S access rule. The regulation is being challenged before the California Supreme Court in a separate action by growers who claim it violates the state trespass law.

Police hunt 2 in B of A bombing

BERKELEY (AP) — Police were seeking two men today for questioning in connection with a small bomb explosion Tuesday night below a building which houses a Bank of America branch.

No one was injured in the blast, which detonated at about 8 p.m., causing only minor damage to the bank, but shattering many nearby apartment windows and knocking doors off hinges a half block away, police Sgt. David Sylstra said.

He said the explosion occurred in an underground stairwell and blew a heavy steel door 100 feet into a parking area below the bank office on the ground floor of a six-story financial center on Telegraph Avenue.

Sylstra said witnesses reported seeing two men run to a dark, compact station wagon from the site of the explosion, but the pair had not been located.

PG&E gets okay for new plant

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Pacific Gas & Electric Co. has been granted permission to construct a 12th generating unit at the Geysers power plant in Sonoma County.

The state Public Utilities Commission on Tuesday approved the certificate for the unit which will generate 106,000 kilowatts of electricity. But the unit will be required to have hydrogen sulfide abatement equipment.

The commission said that "without additional generating capacity, reliable electric service could not be maintained, even for present customers, as new customers are added and sufficient load growth occurs.

"In that event," continued the commission, "PG&E would not meet one of its fundamental public utility obligations."

The PUC further said that construction of the new unit "should not, on balance, have a significant effect on the environment."

Sacramento cabbies vote to strike

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Union cab drivers and other taxi company workers voted Tuesday night to strike at 12:30 a.m. New Year's Day in a dispute over wages and fringe benefits.

Vernon Shorey, secretary-treasurer of Teamsters Local 165, said the strike will affect about 285 employes of two firms — Greyhound Taxi Co. and Union Taxi Co. (Yellow cabs).

Shorey said the members voted, 177-0 to reject a management offer which would have reduced drivers' pay and given backup workers 5 cents an hour more.

The vote to strike was 130-44, Shorey said.

A negotiation session with federal mediators was set for Friday morning.

Student from Newport Beach named 1976 Maid of Cotton

MEMPHIS (AP)—Victoria Laughlin, a brown-eyed college student from Newport Beach, Calif., was named the 1976 Maid of Cotton in judging Tuesday night.

Miss Laughlin, 21, a senior at the University of Southern California, is 5 feet 6, weighs 122 pounds, has brown hair and is studying speech communications.

She is director of the student radio station on the USC campus and is a dean's list student.

Her father, Robert J. Laughlin, is a mortgage banker who finances loans for cotton crops in California.

Miss Laughlin was selected from among five finalists out of a field of 18 contestants. The contest is sponsored by the National Cotton Council, which is headquartered in Memphis.

First runner-up was Elise Shelton, 20, Amarillo, Tex., and second alternate was Marci McSherry, 21, Deming, N.M. Also among the five finalists were Dorothy Dane, 21, New Orleans, La., and Susan Sylvester, 21, Gainesville, Fla.

The new Maid will serve as the ambassadress for the cotton industry during the nation's Bicentennial. Her first duty will be to reign over the Cotton Bowl in Dallas Thursday.

In March Miss Laughlin will represent the cotton industry in Washington for a week before embarking on a seven-week tour of the Far East, including stops in Japan, India, Taiwan, Indonesia, Hong Kong, Korea and Thailand.

Other contestants from western states included Sue Groefsema, Piru, Calif., and Sue Savage, Eloy, Ariz..

Transportation layoffs on; judges refuse to interfere

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Three judges have refused to stop the state Transportation Department from laying off 475 employes on New Year's Eve, the California State Employes Association says.

However, the CSEA said the judges scheduled later hearings which could invalidate the layoffs and require the state to rehire the employes.

The layoffs are part of a plan to eliminate more than 2,000 jobs in the Transportation Department by next July 1 because of the slowdown in highway construction.

CSEA spokesman Keith Hearn said that Sacramento Superior Court Judge Joseph DeCristoforo refused Tuesday to nullify the layoffs, but ordered the state Personnel Board to appear Monday to explain them.

In Oakland, Superior Court Judge Robert Bostick also refused to stop the layoffs, but said he would hold a trial at an unspecified date on the CSEA's contention that the state had failed to "meet and confer" in good faith on the layoffs.

In a third action in Los Angeles, Superior Court Judge Harry Hupp also denied an order stopping the layoffs, but set a hearing for Jan. 14 on a protest by Professional Engineers in California Government, Hearn said.

Cut-up flag in truck nets ticket

A La Puente man has been given a ticket for mutilating the American flag, San Dimas sheriff's deputies reported.

The incident occurred at Azusa and Gladstone avenues where deputies Paul Fridd and Gerald Dudley said they saw a pickup truck with a cut-up American flag used as a shade for the rear window.

The flag had been cut into two 48 by 32-inch pieces, they said.

The deputies quoted the driver, William F. White, 22, as saying the flag was an old one bearing 48 stars and defending its having been cut up on that basis.

Phonetastic phun of phoning may be phloored by inphlation

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Some Pacific Telephone Co. customers will pay more than they have in the past for service but less for one-and two-minute calls within California under a plan approved by the state Public Utilities Commission.

The PUC raised charges on Tuesday for three-minute conversations but established one- and two-minute minimum rates for the first time.

Under the new long-distance rates, a daytime 3-minute telephone call from San Francisco to Los Angeles will rise from $1.15 to $1.37. It will cost 59 cents for one minute and 98 cents for two minutes. Previously the minimum charge for a long-distance call within California was for three minutes.

The service rate increases and new long-distance charges are expected to go into effect within a week.

Pacific Telephone had sought a $97.8 million boost in service rates to offset increased wages and other expenses.

The $65 million increase was approved on a 3-1 vote. It affects only charges involving service connection, installation and moving or changing telephones.

The PUC followed a staff recommendation to break charges down so that someone who does not want a telephone moved or new wiring would pay less than a person who does request that service.

The commission approved installation rates ranging from $17 to $28 for residential telephones and $27 to $41 for businesses. The previous basic rates were $24 for residences and $35 for businesses.

Commissioner Leonard Ross, the lone dissenter, said in a statement: "Pacific Telephone collects $260 million annually from rate payers as an allowance for 'phantom taxes' — taxes which Pacific does not currently owe and which it may never have to pay."

The commission said it would hold further hearings on ways to change the method of computing taxes for setting rates, including a staff recommendation that tax savings be passed on to telephone users.

The PUC said the newly adopted rates would be subject to refund pending the outcome of those hearings.

Free medical service for the poor

State-run insurance agency for doctors urged

SACRAMENTO (AP) — The Brown administration's malpractice insurance troubleshooter says California doctors should consider creating a state-run insurance company and provide free medical service to the poor as a means of solving the malpractice crisis.

Robert Gnaizda, deputy secretary of the Health and Welfare Agency, said the proposal would sharply reduce physicians' insurance rates and take away the need for private medical malpractice insurance companies.

He issued the proposal Monday as Southern Californians prepared for a physician work slowdown scheduled to start Thursday to protest a 327 per cent rate increase demanded by Travelers Insurance, one of the state's major malpractice carriers.

Carl Goetsch, president of the California Medical Association, said the association will have to study the proposal "very carefully for implications of greater intrusion into the private practice of medicine. The proposal has the potential for very heavy handed intrusion."

There was no immediate reaction from the insurance industry to the proposal, and Gnaizda said he had no assurance from doctors that the proposal would halt the slowdown.

Assemblyman Barry Keene, who unveiled the plan with Gnaizda at a press conference, said the proposal was "not the magic solution" to the malpractice crisis.

"This is simply a proposal that is a distillation of the various ideas put forth by parties involved in the problem," he said. "We do not know if it flies. We do not know if it is workable. We are seeking a sounding."

The plan was sparked by the long-smoldering malpractice insurance problem that has sent physicians' malpractice rates skyrocketing throughout the state this year.

The Gnaizda-Keene proposal would set up a malpractice fund to which all California physicians would contribute. The fund would total $120 million at first and would be administered by a seven-member board appointed by the governor.

Payments for all medical malpractice claims in the state would be made from the fund, and no physician would face liability greater than the amount in the fund.

Physician payments would average $4,000 a year to start, which is about a third more than the average doctor pays now for malpractice insurance but is less than the $10,000-$12,000 average payment Travelers will require in 1976.

Doctor payments to the fund would automatically be increased for inflation and could also be boosted an additional 10 to 15 per cent a year if the state insurance commissioner felt it was needed.

Private insurance companies would "not be needed" to provide malpractice coverage if the plan were put into effect, an outline of the plan said.

Gnaizda said the plan projects lower malpractice rates for two reasons:

Its drafters take a more liberal interpretation than insurance companies do of the effects of this year's major malpractice reform bill and also because a state-run fund would be a nonprofit operation.

Among the major provisions of the 1975 malpractice reform bill were limits on attorneys fees and the amount that could be awarded a patient for pain and suffering. The bill was introduced by Keene, a Eureka Democrat.

The Gnaizda-Keene plan also suggests that quality controls on physicians be strengthened and that doctors who serve few Medi-Cal recipients be required to provide some free medical service to the needy.

The second requirement would cover physicians whose patients consist of less than 10 per cent Medi-Cal recipients. Those doctors would have to provide up to 20 days of free service to the poor each year.

The plan also calls for the medical profession to finance, staff, and operate, in cooperation with the state Department of Health, a Medical Peace Corps for areas with few physicians.

An outline of the plan described the malpractice fund as "physician controlled," but Gnaizda agreed the fund amounted to a state-run insurance company since its board of directors would be appointed by the governor.

At least three of the board members would have to be laymen.

The plan would also require physicians to roll back patient fees to avoid profitting from reduced premiums provided by the proposal.

Under the plan's tougher quality control provisions, the state Medical Quality Assurance Board could take away a doctor's license if his or her staff privileges were taken away by a hospital.

Several doctor groups have said that their members will perform only emergency work starting Thursday to protest the higher malpractice rates. But it is not certain how many doctors will take part.

The slowdown reportedly has already begun at some hospitals.

In a related development, Los Angeles County Supervisor Kenneth Hahn called Monday for a plan to use the county's 916 paramedics to treat patients if the slowdown created a medical emergency.

In addition, Dr. Joseph Roberts, a spokesman for Concerned Physicians for Malpractice Reform, urged ambulance companies to take emergency cases to public hospitals instead of private hospitals starting New Year's Eve.

He said that resident physicians doing emergency work at private hospitals would be covered by the hospital's insurance policy. But doctors doing work at private hospitals would not, he added.

10 guerrillas sentenced to death for killing 3 Yanks

TEHRAN, Iran (AP) — An Iranian army tribunal has sentenced 10 Marxist guerrillas to death by a firing squad for the killing of three American colonels, an Iranian employe of the U.S. consulate and four other Iranians.

An 11th defendant was sentenced to solitary confinement for 15 years. The sentences were made public today after the tribunal issued them Tuesday night.

The accused admitted participating in the killing last May 21 of U.S. Air Force Col. Paul R. Shaffer Jr., 45, a native of Bryan, Ohio, and Lt. Col. Jack J. Turner, 45, of Christopher, Ill., as they were driving to work with the U.S. Military Assistance Advisory Group. They also admitted the 1973 slaying of Lt. Col. Lewis Hopkins, financial comptroller of the U.S. military mission.

The defendants were also convicted of plotting against the regime of Shah Mohammed Reza Pahlevi, illegal possession of arms, armed robbery and sabotage.

The guerrilla receiving the 15-year sentence was a woman, Tahereh Sajjadi Tehrani. Another woman guerrilla, Manijeh Ashrafzadeh Kermani, was among those sentenced to death.

Among the group's Iranian victims was a fellow Marxist guerrilla executed for disobeying the underground organization. According to trial testimony he ws burned to death outside the capital and his grave was shown to officials after the defendants were captured.

Since arrest of the guerrilla defendants last summer, the underground movement has been relatively quiet. Altogether some 200 guerrillas have been killed in street battles with the police or executed by firing squads in the past several years.

The killing of the two American colonels in May was "a reply to the execution of nine Iranian revolutionaries in prison last month," a woman's voice said in a phone call the The Associated Press in Tehran shortly after the shooting.

She also said since the shah is "a stooge of the Americans, we therefore murder Americans."

The U.S. Embassy, quoting witnesses, gave this description of the killing of Shaffer and Turner:

The American car carrying the colonels to work at an Iranian military base southeast of Tehran was stopped by a car blocking the road ahead, and a second car bumped it from behind. Three men got out of the cars and shot the officers several times as they fell to the floor. A third car picked up the gunmen and raced away.

Shaffer and Turner were among 1,000 American military personnel and 2,000 civilians assigned to the U.S. Military Assistance Advisory Group in Iran.

Man held in local market robbery

A 23-year-old Los Angeles man was arrested by Montclair police this morning shortly after he allegedly robbed a 7-Eleven Market in Ontario minutes earlier.

Marty Mandojano, 23, of Los Angeles was booked in the West End Jail this morning for investigation of robbery after the 7-Eleven Market at G Street and Vine Avenue in Ontario was robbed of a small amount of cash by a gunman.

According to Ontario police, the robbery occurred about 12:30 a.m. A gunman ordered the store clerk to hand over the cash and coins from the register and fled. The clerk managed to give Ontario officers a general description of the robber which was broadcast to all West End and valley cities.

Minutes later Richard Rizzo, a Montclair reserve officer, spotted a man matching the Ontario robber's description entering the Stop and Go Market at Bandera Street and Ramona Avenue in Montclair and come out with a bottle. After asking for assistance, Rizzo and other officers stopped the suspect getting into a tan foreign car. Police said in the car they found a bag containing a large amount of coins. On Rizzo officers found a large amount of cash and a loaded revolver.

Two POMONA restaurants were the scenes of holdups in Pomona Tuesday night within nine minutes, police reported.

At 9:30, two men, one with a small caliber automatic pistol, robbed Burger King at 1245 E. Holt Ave. An employe, Frank V. Castro, 33, said the pair ordered food, then showed the pistol and handed him a sack for the cash. After receiving it, they fled on foot.

The armed man was described as a Negro 25 to 30, 6 feet weighing 205 pounds. He had a mustache and goatee and wore a black stocking cap, pullover sweater and dark trousers.

Nine minutes later two men, one armed with a revolver, robbed Bob's Big Boy at Holt Avenue and Main Street. The armed man was described as a Negro about 35, 5 feet 10 weighing 200 pounds. He wore a brown beannie, dark glasses, a jacket and dark trousers. The pair also fled on foot.

One man has been charged and a second released in the slaying Christmas Eve of John Paul Bogustowski, 29, in a mobile home in POMONA.

Billy Charles Bolesta, 27, was arraigned on a murder charge before Pomona Municipal Court Commissioner Thomas A. Peterson who scheduled a preliminary hearing for Jan. 12 and ordered Bolesta held in lieu of $50,000 bail.

Earlier, police released John Carl Bajorek, also 27, who was arrested immediately following the killing. Bajorek was released without charge.

Bogustowski was stabbed to death during a fracas inside the trailer he, Bolesta and Bajorek shared at 1086 E. Mission Blvd. Police quoted Bolesta as saying that during an argument Bogustowski threw hot water from a coffee pot on him and a fight ensued. They reported that the victim was stabbed in the center of his chest as he straddled Bolesta on the floor of the trailer during the fight.

A POMONA man said he was hit on the head with a tire iron during an argument and was then robbed.

The incident occurred at the Black Gold service station at 1344 W. Mission Blvd. Monday afternoon. The victim, Robert Miller, 43, was treated at Pomona Valley Community Hospital and released.

He said he was having some work done on his car and while he was waiting another man confronted him, they argued and the man hit him and then looted his pockets.

The Go Low service station at 2155 Murchison St., POMONA, was robbed Monday evening by two young men, one armed with a sawed-off, .22-caliber rifle.

Employe Cleaferse McCowen Jr. said the armed man showed the weapon under his jacket and demanded money. After getting it, he forced the victim into a storeroom and both fled.

The armed robber was described as a Negro about 18, 5 feet 6 wearing a military-style cap and jacket and blue jeans.

Recall of ambassador brews political storm

LONDON (AP) — A political storm blew up in Britain today over the Labor government's recall of the British ambassador to Chile after a British doctor reported she was stripped and tortured during two months as a prisoner of the Chilean military junta.

Conservative legislators said the government should not have recalled Ambassador Reginald Seconde solely on Dr. Sheila Cassidy's word that she was tortured. They demanded that the government publish evidence to substantiate her allegations.

At the same time, the leftwing of the Labor party said the government's action was insufficient and planned to press for sterner reprisals, including trade sanctions.

The government also lodged a strong protest with the Chilean government and demanded a full inquiry into Dr. Cassidy's charges.

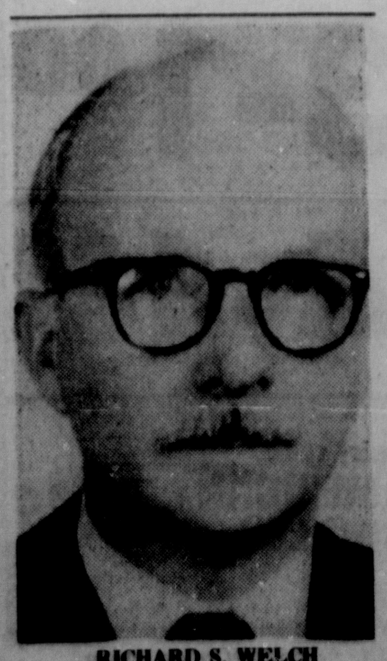

Seconde left Santiago Tuesday night after meeting with officials of the Chilean Foreign Ministry. The Chilean government said it would have no statement until it studied the situation further, but the Chilean Embassy in London denied Dr. Cassidy had been tortured.

The sandy-haired, 38-year-old woman, who was arrested because she treated a wounded Chilean leftist while he was in hiding, arrived from Santiago Tuesday night in blue jeans, sandals, a smock and overcoat lent her by U.N. officials. Looking pale and drawn, she told reporters:

"I was stripped naked and tied down to a bed. I was tortured for up to an hour at a time."

Dr. Cassidy was arrested Nov. 1 in the Roman Catholic mission hospital where she worked and was held in the Tres Alamos prison in Santiago until Nov. 14. After her release, she was detained in Santiago until Monday.

"The first night after my arrest, I was tortured with electric shocks on three separate occasions," she said.

RICHARD S. WELCH

Slain Welch's family:

Never thought about danger

LINCOLN, R.I. (AP) — The family of slain Central Intelligence Agency official Richard S. Welch knew about his work but never thought much about the potential danger of the job, his brother says.

"I heard about his death after finishing Christmas shopping in downtwon Providence," George P. Welch, a 47-year-old salesman, said Tuesday. "It came as a tremendous shock.

"He never said he had any feeling about danger although in retrospect he must have known there was some. He just thought the job he did was very important. He was a very patriotic fellow."

President Ford, in an interview in today's Washington Post, strongly criticized "CIA defectors" who have publically identified other agents, resulting in the death "of one fine official and ... (which) could result in the death of others."

Richard Welch, 46, was shot down by three masked men in Athens last week. His body was returned to the United States Tuesday for burial at Arlington National Cemetery. CIA officials scheduled a private service at agency headquarters outside Washington today.

In an interview with The Associated Press, George Welch said he believes his brother joined the CIA shortly after his graduation from Harvard in 1951. He said his brother told him he was joining the agency but never discussed details of his work.

Richard Welch, born in Hartford, Conn., grew up in Providence and attended Classical High School, getting honor grades.

"He was a hard worker," George Welch said. "He studied Greek in school. He loved Greece."

Welch said he considered it wrong for "Counteryspy," a Washington publication, to publish the names of agents, including that of his brother, brother.

"Counterspy" identified Richard Welch as a CIA agent, but the magazine said it did not name him as the head of agency operations in Greece. A "Counterspy" spokesman says the magazine picked up Welch's CIA identity from foreign newspaper stories.

No nude women for Nixon—Graham

MONTREAT, N.C. (AP) — Evangelist Billy Graham, a friend of former President Richard M. Nixon and other chief executives, says at least Nixon "didn't have nude women running around in the private quarters of the White House."

Graham, who has known chief executives since former President Harry S. Truman, said he was shocked at recent allegations of sexual exploits of President John F. Kennedy.

There has been no proof of the allegations.

Smiles when asked about reports

Jackie silent over JFK ladies talk

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — Jacqueline Kennedy Onassis smiled but refused any comment when asked about reports of illicit romance between several women and her late husband, John F. Kennedy.

Mrs. Onassis, widow of President Kennedy and Greek shipping tycoon Aristotle Onassis, posed for pictures but would not answer reporters' questions.

Published reports have said two women, known as "Fiddle" and "Faddle" to the Secret Service, had affairs with President Kennedy. Two other women, Judith Campbell Exner and Joan Lundberg Hitchcock, also claimed close relationships with Kennedy.

Former Kennedy aides have discounted the reports.

Mrs. Onassis was accompanied by her children, Caroline and John Jr.; sisters-in-law Pat Lawford and Jean Smith; Mrs. Lawford's three children; Mrs. Smith's husband, Steven, and their four children.

They had been vacationing at central Idaho's Sun Valley ski resort since Christmas and came here to join Sen. Edward M Kennedy, D-Mass., his wife and three children, who have been in Utah since Saturday.

Few jobs lost over laws on pollution

WASHINGTON (AP) — Studies by the Environmental Protection Agency show that plant closings and job losses resulting from new antipollution laws are far fewer than industry predictions, according to EPA Deputy Administrator John R. Quarles Jr.

"The lack of adverse economic impact has been the biggest surprise in the unfolding of our programs of environmental reforms," Quarles said.

He referred to an EPA survey due to be released in January showing that about 75 plants have closed and some 15,700 workers have lost their jobs during the past five years as a result of pollution controls. The same survey also found that most of the closed plants were old and inefficient.

"Industrial extremists typically assumed the worst," Quarles said of industry predictions that antipollution laws would force many companies out of business and add to the nation's unemployment.

"Many industries had predicted widespread plant closings and employe layoffs as a result of the new laws," he said.

Almanac

By Associated Press

Today is Wednesday, December 31, the last day of 1975.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1879, at Menlo Park, N.J., Thomas Edison first demonstrated the electric incandescent light.

On this date —

In 1781, Henry Laurens of the American Continental Congress was released from the Tower of London in return for the British general Charles Cornwallis.

In 1862, President Abraham Lincoln signed an act admitting West Virginia to the Union.

In 1890, Ellis Island in New York Harbor was opened as an immigration depot.

In 1890, General George Marshall was born in Uniontown, Pa.

In 1946, the end of World War II was proclaimed officially by President Harry Truman.

In 1951, the U.S. Marshall plan expired after distributing foreign aid amounting to $12.5 billion.

Ten years ago: in Paris, the U.S. representative to the United Nations, Arthur Goldberg, told French President de Gaulle that the United States wanted an early and honorable settlement of the Vietnam conflict.

Five years ago: the Soviet Union commuted the death sentences of two Jews convicted of trying to hijack an airliner to Israel.

One year ago: the Richard Nixon Foundation dropped plans to build a library in honor of the former president.

Today's birthday: industrialist James Ling is 53 years old.

Thought for today: When driving, lose a minute and save a life — anonymous.

Bicentennial footnote: 200 years ago today, the American general Richard Montgomery was killed and Benedict Arnold was wounded as they led an American attack against the Canadian city of Quebec.

The United States prohibits the importation of absinthe, habitual use of which causes mental and physical debility.

Money talks

Advertisers spent over $26 billion in 1974 to promote their products, according to The Conference Board. About $14 billion was spent on national advertising and $12 billion was spent locally. Newspapers received $8 billion of the total budget and television received $5 billion. The smallest amount of the advertising budget — $1.5 billion — was spent on magazines.

Vatican opposes sex for pleasure

VATICAN CITY (AP) — A decree reaffirming the Vatican's opposition to sex for pleasure and its adamant stand against artificial birth control is to be issued soon, Vatican sources said.

They reported the document, already printed but not yet released by the Congregation of the Faith, has the approval of Pope Paul VI and is based on an exhaustive two-year study and opinion from many countries.

"It is clear that the church seems to be taking a heavily conservative position — a definite 'no' to new ideas," the usually reliable and influential newspaper La Stampa reported Monday.

It said the 16-page document will point out the "anomalies" and "errors" committed on sexual matters in the last few years and recommend to newlyweds "the purity, sacrifice and control of the senses." It was also said to prohibit premarital sex.

The decree would essentially confirm the Roman Catholic Church's views on birth control outlined in the encyclical "Humanae Vitae," or human life, issued in 1968.

Vatican spokesman Federico Alessandrini declined comment on the reported decree, but the Vatican usually refuses comment on pending documents until they are officially announced.

The document would fit recent statements by the pope. He appealed to young people in his Christmas message this year to reject ideas inherited from the "insufficient wisdom" of the past generation based on a hunger for power, materialism and pleasure.

Labor statistics defended by commissioner

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — Julius Shiskin, commissioner of the Bureau of Labor Statistics, is among those who would like a blue ribbon committee appointed to review concepts and procedures used in developing official employment statistics.

Nevertheless, Shiskin, who is responsible for gathering and reporting the figures, generally defends present concepts and techniques as sound, if sometimes imperfect. A review is needed, he feels, to satisfy critics.

Doubts about the figures have grown this year. Some users of the jobless rate feel the true level and meaning of unemployment is poorly understood, and that the figures are badly understated.

Shiskin, whose ability and integrity are highly regarded even by most critics, concedes there have been problems with the measurements, but he maintains they do the job, and that the official jobless rate — 8.3 per cent in November — is a good measure.

"It has multiple uses," he said. "It's a good cylical indicator. It's an excellent measure of economic performance. And it is also a good indicator of economic and psychological hardship."

The procedures used by Shiskin are largely a product of the Committee to Appraise Employment and Unemployment Statistics, created in 1961 and commonly called the Gordon Committee for its chariman, Prof. Robert A. Gordon.

"We have by and large followed the Gordon Committee recommendations," said Shiskin repeatedly in an interview. "It's a good report."

Still, he concedes some serious changes have developed since then, such as an increase of women in the labor force and the extension of jobless benefits, both of which might tend to change procedures and interpretations.

Gordon, an economist at the University of California-Berkeley, believes another committee should be created partly because the distribution of many millions of dollars in revenue sharing depend upon local job statistics, which at best can be trusted only "cautiously."

Alfred Teller's criticisms have been of a different nature. Teller, now a Census Bureau Employe, declines to comment from that position, but during his years at Georgetown University he attacked what he felt was subjective questioning and analysis.

Among his many criticism was that a lot of people would rather say they weren't looking for a job than admit to a questioner that they were unable to get work. Some might say they were ill, he found, and thus eliminate themselves from the labor statistics.

Through his research and that of others he found a curious recurrence: Many of the reasons people give for not being in the labor force have a cyclical nature, developing as alibis and excuses when jobs are hard to get.

"Why should illness be correlated with the business cycle?" he asked.

Shiskin is aware of this and other criticism and says he considers it healthy. He concedes that, "This year we had a very serious problem of seasonal adjustment." A new adjustment factor might be introduced in February he said.

Hypnotism helps stabbing victim nail the suspect

TAVARES, Fla. (AP) — Detectives in Casselberry, Fla. thought they never would learn who stabbed Oscar Wade until someone remembered Julian Arroyo, the Tavares police chief who learned hypnotism back in 1926.

Casselberry police called Arroyo for assistance and within five minutes of his arrival, a suspect was charged.

"It was nothing really," said the 62-year-old Arroyo. "Nothing that any good hypnotist couldn't have done."

Casselberry police had been trying for three weeks to get Wade, victim of a Dec. 7 stabbing attack outside a bar, to describe his assailant, but Wade had no recollection of the incident.

"He had absolutely no memory of what happened to him or who did it," said Arroyo. "But under hypnosis, he remembered it all in detail. He even knew the man who did it."

But the arrest of Wade's alleged assailant on attempted murder charges last week represented only the last in a long string of crime-busting successes for Arroyo's hypnotism skills.

"I was the first hypnotist to be licensed by the state of Florida in 1956 and I had my own school after retiring as police chief of Indialantic in 1974," he said. "But I got itchy feet for police work again and took this job last September."

Arroyo said his "biggest thrill" came in 1968 when Rudolph Herring, the "kiss and kill" rapist of Miami, confessed under hypnosis, ending a series of almost 20 slayings.

"I was pretty hopped up about it and it meant that one less killer was roaming the streets," said Arroyo, who was a deputy in the small town of Virginia Gardens when he broke the Herring case.

Arroyo hasn't kept a scrapbook of his exploits, but he said he has used his skill to solve "quite a few rape cases where the victim couldn't remember anything about her attacker."

In addition to solving crimes, Arroyo said he's also worked with doctors to help people diet and stop smoking, but he admits to only mixed success.

Cal Poly confident of Rose Parade prize

'Flower children' floating in sea of hope

By VONNE ROBERTSON
PB Staff Writer

By 2 in the morning, the workers get a little slap-happy with the blossoms, but otherwise the float being entered by Cal Poly universities in the Tournament of Roses Parade Thursday in Pasadena is coming along on schedule.

A crew of 75 students from the Pomona and San Luis Obispo campuses and their friends are swarming over the 50-foot long float, titled "High Hopes," to cover it with thousands of fresh flowers, leaves and coco palm bark.

"We've got another prize winner this year," said Bob Evans, chairman for the 1976 float which is the university's 28th entry in the parade.

"Because we are primarily an engineering-oriented school, we design and create floats which stress originality in mechanical innovations and appeal to children.

"We can't possibly compete with the high costs of some of the entries, but we have won a number of major prizes over the years."

Evans is a senior majoring in engineering technology at the Pomona campus.

The Cal Poly float, which depicts a basset hound trying to steal the ice cream cone of his young owner, will cost about $16,000 compared with some $60,000 for many of the entries in the parade.

Funds are raised through student activity fees, special events and selling extra flowers which the students raise for the float. Blossoms are sold to other float makers.

Bob Reynolds, a faculty adviser from the San Luis Obispo campus, says his work is done now.

"I help with the rendering and concept in the summer and the students take over from there.

"This is a great educational opportunity for the kids. They have to learn to work together and are constantly forced to make important decisions quickly," added Reynolds.

"I have to resist the temptation to jump in and advise them."

One of the decisions made by the workers Tuesday afternoon concerned the rotation of the boy's head.

Student John Cash announced "Some clod welded something wrong and it broke." This caused rotation problems in the 18-foot high float.

Then Cash confessed "I'm the clod."

Linda Hames, a freshman on the San Luis Obispo campus, serves as historian for the float and has been working on the project since September.

Also working on the float since the fall are San Luis Obispo students Debby Mansur, Sue Johnson and Joanie Anderson.

The girls started working 18-hour days last week, to complete the placing of flowers which must cover the float.

"We share the floor in the living room of parents of another student who lives in Pasadena when we do sleep, which is very little," said Miss Johnson.

Jim Fauset, a senior at the Pomona campus, confessed that he had to look at his calendar watch to find out what day it is.

"I'm going to the parade, then I'm going to bed," said Fauset who is working on the float for the third year.

The students are gluing red and white chrysanthemums in checkered patterns to create the shirt of the boy on the float. His pants are blue cornflowers.

The basset hound is covered with pampas grass, coco palms and bunnytail plants, which cover the nose. The dog's tongue is being covered with red poinsettia leaves.

Much of the base will be covered with asparagus fern and evergreen boughs.

While the students are working full steam between now and Thursday morning, few expect to be awake when Ohio State and UCLA kick off in the Rose Bowl after their float has passed down Colorado Boulevard.

The Cal Poly entry will be returned to the Pomona campus and be exhibited in the quad during the opening days of the winter quarter next week.

STICKY TONGUE

Debby Mansur of San Gabriel, a sophomore at Cal Poly Pomona, spreads glue on the tongue of the basset hound on the university's float prior to attaching red poinsettia petals. Flowers are being glued on the float at the Rosemont Pavilion in Pasadena.

FLOWERS ATTACHED

Joni Senkpiel of Chicago volunteers her vacation time to glue fresh flowers on the Cal Poly universities' float for the Tournament of Roses Parade Thursday in Pasadena. All work on the 50-foot long float is being done by students and their friends.

Fuel decision holds up work on dairy waste recycle plant

Construction of a pilot plant to recycle dairy wastes is being postponed until officials decide on the fuel source.

The Chino Basin Municipal Water District plans to build the $1 million facility capable of processing 90,000 pounds of manure daily. It will serve the west end of San Bernardino County.

Officials had proposed to break ground this year but they delayed this until they decide the source of fuel to be used.

Being considered are natural gas or a fiber material that comes from the recycled dairy waste, said E. Gil Ross, district manager. "Tests on the fiber content will be made in January and then we must go through the environmental impact review. The fuel to be used must be included in that review."

The CBMWD signed a contract last November with the Ceres Ecology Corp. of Sterling, Colo., which owns the processing method. The contract requires that construction begin before November of 1976.

"We are now looking to next spring to break ground for the plant," said Ross. "Although we haven't selected a specific plant site, it will be within reasonable distance from the dairies."

The type of fuel used will also be a determining factor in the site selected, he added.

Once the plant is operating, it will process waste into three products: silage that can be fed to nondairy animals such as beef cattle; pellets suitable for feed for hogs, chickens and fish; and a soil conditioner.

The plant will assist in solving a serious salt imbalance caused by the manure, said Ross. At present, the district's underground basin has about 86,000 tons of salt accumulated each year. A large portion results from the 140,000 dairy cows concentrated on 17,000 acres.

The pilot plant will be able to process solid wastes from about 10,000 cows. And with its successful operation, similar plants can be located in other areas of the basin to process even more manure, he added.

Specially designed trucks will be used to pick up the waste and transport it to the processing plant. The plant itself involves a simple process and requires little room for operation. Funds for the project were included in a recent bond issue approved by district voters, said Ross.

Freedom Train chugging on to next stop after success here

Some 74,204 visitors went through the American Freedom Train during its seven-day stop in Pomona, officials announced today.

Revenues from attendance, parking and concessions were sufficient to pay expenses incurred to bring the train to the valley, according to Tony Navarro, spokesman for the Pomona Freedom Train Committee.

The train and its crew pulled out of Pomona about 2 a.m. today. Its destination is Santa Barbara. It will be there Friday and Saturday. From Santa Barbara the train will go to Pier J at Port of Long Beach Jan. 6-8.

Following that, it will be at Anaheim Stadium Jan. 9-11.

The train actually was in Pomona for eight days. However, it was closed on Christmas Day.

During its first two days at the Los Angeles County Fairgrounds, 11,075 people went through the 10-car historic display. Friday's attendance was 12,174. Saturday's 11,602 and Sunday's 12,649.

Attendance peaked on Monday when 14,904 men, women and children lined up to take the 20-minute ride on the moving conveyer belt through the train. Tuesday's attendance fell to 11,800, Navarro said.

The one complaint voiced repeatedly by those who toured the train was that they were moved through so rapidly they could not see everything there was to see, or read any of the documents.

However, the holiday and unseasonably warm weather brought out crowds which at times caused up to 3½-hour waits for some visitors before they could get aboard. Train officials said the maximum number of visitors the train can handle in a day is 14,400.

City of Pomona's outlay for bringing the exhibit to the valley was $41,000, Navarro said. Most costly was the installation of the temporary spur line at $24,000.

While final reports were not available today, Navarro said it appeared the city would receive about $20,000 from public parking, $12,000 from attendance and the remainder needed to meet expenses from concessions.

He said if there were funds available above the $41,000 they would be shared on a population basis with the nine valley cities which cooperated to provide security for the train during its stay here.

Navarro credited the "hundreds of volunteers" who assisted with parking, tickets, concessions and entertainment with making this "very worthwhile" experience available to valley residents.

The train's final night locally saw the exhibition picketed by four men police identified as members of the American Indian Movement.

The four were protesting some aspect of the exhibit in which two cars were devoted to American Indian history, officers said.

During the picketing, which lasted about two hours, the protesters carried an American flag upside down — a distress signal which also has become known as a symbol of protest.

Christmas Day accident victim dies

A 12-year-old Valinda boy, injured critically in a traffic accident in Pomona Christmas Day, died Tuesday in Pomona Valley Community Hospital's intensive care unit.

The victim, Ruben De Alba, 1134 Elsberry St., suffered a head injury when he was hit by a car while riding a borrowed bicycle on Garey Avenue north of Philadelphia Street. He was visiting friends at 1134 Beaver Court at the time of the accident. The boy was the seventh person killed in traffic on Pomona streets this year.

The driver of the car, Lawrence V. Gosnell, 57, Pomona, told police that he was northbound, as was the boy, when the rider suddenly swerved left into the path of his car and he could not avoid the collision.

Covered wagon camp at fairgrounds

A gala encampment and show of the covered wagons participating in the Bicentennial Wagon Train Pilgrimage to Pennsylvania is scheduled Thursday at 6:30 p.m. at the Carnation Ring of the Los Angeles County Fairgrounds at Pomona.

The wagon train show is a 45-minute musical tribute to America, its heroes, its history and its lifestyle as presented by six young people from various states.

Clem Neibel, chairman of the Pomona Bicentennial Commission, will welcome those attending the special program.

Mayor Ray Lepire of Pomona will greet the visitors on behalf of the city.

Maurice Williams will lead the singing of the national anthem.

The four covered wagons participating in the Rose Bowl Parade New Year's Day will be trucked to the Carnation Show Ring.

The wagons will be accompanied in the Rose Parade by 11 mounted outriders, some of whom will travel with the caravan south to Pomona, Palm Springs, Yuma, Tucson, Santa Fe and Independence, Mo. along the Santa Fe Trail.

Leading the outriders will be Princess Pale Moon, the Cherokee entertainer and speaker, and Marilyn Robison of Somis, who is the national trail coordinator for the pilgrimage.

Those riding with the caravan will camp overnight at the fairgrounds. At dawn, they will harness their teams, saddle their horses, and after a brief ceremony, head southward about 8 a.m. Friday.

New tactics for world food

It took from the dawn of time until 1830 to assemble the earth's first billion human beings. But it took only 100 years for the next billion. And then only 30 years for the third.

That was in 1960. In the 15 years since then, we have gathered the fourth billion, and 10 years hence will bring the fifth billion.

By the end of this century — barring some worldwide, depopulating catastrophe — between 6.5 and 7.5 billion souls will be sharing the world's dinnertable.

These familiar and oft-repeated statistics were reiterated again by S.T. Keel, senior vice president of International Minerals & Chemical Corp. (IMC), keynoting the 11th Latin American Food Production Conference held recently in San Juan, Puerto Rico.

He cited another dismal figure: At the present rate of population growth, the gap between the needs of the developing nations and the grain they produce will rise from the present 25 million tons a year to an annual deficit of 85 million tons by 1985, only 10 slim years away.

Obviously, the world needs more food and needs it quickly. The United States has embarked on a program to increase its output to the maximum and in the last two years has expanded its grain acreage from 144 million acres to 167 million acres.

But even with the all-out efforts of American farmers, the U.S. cannot make up the deficit alone. Ironically — but also giving cause for hope — it is the nations with the most rapidly growing food deficits which also possess the greatest capacity for increased production, says Keel.

The developing nations have the largest amounts of unused land and water. While they now have 35 per cent more land in grain production than the developed nations, they produce 20 per cent less on this land.

"In short," says Keel, "the largest growth in world food production can — and must — take place in the countries of chronic deficit."

This has been the impetus behind 24 food production conferences which IMC, the world's largest producer of fertilizers, has been sponsoring in Asia and Latin America since 1965. That and the fact that of all the variables involved in agriculture, fertilizer is the single most important short-term input for increasing production. Nothing else can boost crop yields as swiftly, economically and effectively.

While leading figures in government, industry and science have attended the conferences and traded ideas on new tools and techniques to increase food production, from computer crop planning to chemical growth regulators to plant genetics, no problem amenable to practical solution is too small.

At one conference, for example, two hours were spent determining what kind of burlap should be used for fertilizer bags. This was very important because in that part of the world burlap bags have reuse applications like clothing and bed coverings. The after-use value of the bags made fertilizer more attractive to local farmers, and this stimulus to fertilizer purchases helped increased food production.

The world now finds itself precariously balanced between what it grows and what it eats. It may, indeed, turn out, says Keel, that for a variety of reasons — politics, wars, general economic stupidity — the world will not be properly fed.

"But we cannot accept that from our present vantage point. If we keep pressing the belief that it can be done, that the world can be fed adequately and nutritionally, we will find more ways and enough strength to do it."

The great garbage caper

WASHINGTON — The late J. Edgar Hoover took extraordinary countermeasures, we have just learned, to keep us out of his garbage.

Back in 1971, we began an FBI-style investigation of the almighty Hoover. This included a watch on his garbage. Our purpose was merely to burlesque the FBI's own tactics. For the FBI chief had taught his agents to search a subject's trash for the key to his true character.

We solemnly concluded from our Great Garbage Caper that Hoover suffered from gas pains. It was unsettling, we agreed, to think of a living legend having gas on his stomach. But the evidence was indisputable: his garbage disclosed that he dined on such fare as crab bisque, sliced onions and peppermint stick ice cream, followed by Gelusil antacid pills.

The great G-man, mindful of his responsibility as an American folk hero, was careful never to be seen drinking in public. But his trash revealed that he tippled at home, with a preferance for Jack Daniels Black Label whiskey.

Such irreverent revelations, we have been informed reliably, caused Hoover to roar with rage. He began pondering countermeasures and seized upon a secret weapon to thwart our garbage raids.

The incurable curmudgeon passed on the word to his subordinates that he wanted a garbage compactor, which could squeeze his garbage into an inseparable, unsearchable block.

His aides, highly sensitive to his slightest wish, immediately began taking up a collection. They raised well over $100, which they invested in a suitable garbage-crushing device. This was presented to him with appropriate ceremony on the 47th anniversary of his FBI career in May 1971.

Never again was anyone able to learn what Hoover ate for dinner.

Footnote: The FBI bulldog used this same technique to acquire other articles that struck his fancy. It became a regular ritual at FBI headquarters to take up collections for Hoover's innumerable anniversaries, birthdays, Thanksgivings and Christmases.

One of his favorite acquisitions was a striking, stone-studded plate, which his underlings purchased for him from a famous Cincinnati jeweler at a discount.

The practice was also extended to Hoover's No. 2 man, the late Clyde Tolson, who felt he should be honored with expensive gifts, too. His subordinated collected hundreds of dollars to buy furniture for his apartment.

On one occasion, the furniture mistakenly was hauled into the Justice Department courtyard at the same time some New York Post reporters were roaming through the FBI office.

The subordinates deathly feared the reporters would notice the furniture and start asking questions. But they overlooked the loaded truck which, under the cover of darkness, eased away from the FBI grounds and delivered the free furniture to Tolson's apartment.

It should be added, in fairness, that the present FBI director, Clarence Kelley, has sternly discouraged any gifts from his agents.

NUCLEAR NEWS: The Federal Energy Administration has just concluded a controversial, computerized study disputing President Ford on nuclear power.

The President contends that the United States must have 100 to 125 nuclear plants to service in 1985 to reduce our dependence upon foreign oil.

The FEA study, however, strongly suggests that the nation won't need nuclear energy after all. The calculations are based on FEA projections of fuel costs and needs in 1985.

Without nuclear energy, the study shows, the country would have to mine huge quantities of coal but would not have to increase oil imports significantly.

"A nationwide nuclear moratorium," combined with a gradual phase-out of existing plants, would mean "a 31 per cent increase" in coal consumption by 1985 above the increases already projected, the study declares.

A chance to do things right

At this time of the year, it's usual for good hopes and wishes to flow back and forth.

While most Americans have had to pull their belts in tighter this year than last, somehow that extra effort produced that extra cash to help get us past the traditional Christmas gift giving.

This is a fun time of the year. The kids are off from school, the exchange of gifts, and the visits to grandparents not seen since the year before.

These memories grow fainter as the time passes by and the recollections soften. Harder times from the past recede from our consciousness by becoming the "good old days."

Well, today will become someone's "good old day" in the future, while for us, now, in the ebbing days of 1975, the prospects for the year ahead don't look very much more promising. Soon the holiday cheer will vanish, and the reality of 1976 will be upon us.

Journalists are now beginning to reassemble the events of 1975 for their annual year-end recap. Once again, in short form, the major events of 1975 will unfold before us . . . the political shenanigans at home to the turmoil overseas.

This year-end review of 1975 will give us a chance to relive great moments in sports and in the popular arts. It will give us yet another chance to say that we were there when that certain home run or knock out or speech was made . . . when history was being made! It'll be nice to tell the kids in years to come that we were around in '75, and we witnessed it all.

This year is nearly over. It becomes an old man in the designs of cartoonists, and we sit poised, hoping that the diapered infant ushered in at midnight tonight will be healthier than the decaying oldster we'll be saying goodbye to.

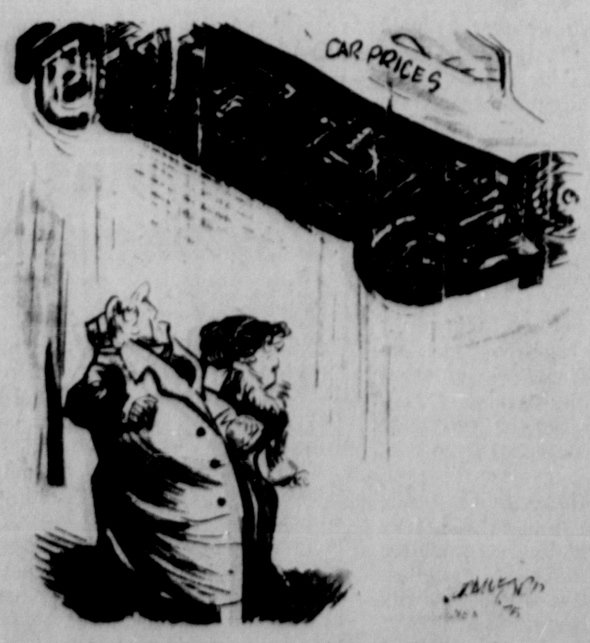

Perhaps the economy is picking up. Perhaps we'll all soon be able to earn a decent day's pay. Perhaps we'll really get some political leadership. Perhaps we'll all grow up. Next year at this time, some of the answers may be clearer.

We have a brand new year facing us. It's the 200th birthday of our country. It could be a promising year. Beyond the hoopla over the bicentennial, it would be good to remember and practice the Bill of Rights which served to get our country off on the path of independence.

We're ringing out the old year and ringing in the new year. It's happening all over again for all of us.

We have the extra chance, which I'm not sure we collectively deserve, to do things right this time.

Happy New Year!

Inefficiency pays off

WASHINGTON (NEA) — Our system of democracy requires, in my mind, as clear a separation between private business and the government as between the Presiden, Congress and the Supreme Court.

When this dividing line is overstepped or ignored, the door is open to corruption, influence peddling and favoritism, and to inefficiencies so great — as witness the Soviet experience — they cost us dearly in our standard of living.

It requires noting here again that there are a considerable number of companies in the United States which receive so great a percentage of their income from government contracts that abuses are certain to occur. Especially when the amounts involved are overpoweringly large.

Take, for example, the matter of military prime contracts, which totaled $40 billion this past fiscal year.

Twenty-eight companies accounted for half that $40 billion, 10 companies for a third and five companies alone for 20 per cent.

Each of nine firms had military prime contracts of between $1 billion and $2 billion.

These figures refer only to military contracts. When we add in Health, Education and Welfare; the National Aeronautics and Space Administration; the Energy Research and Development Administration, and a host of other agencies, we have a situation in which a considerable number of companies are dependent on the government for their very existence.

Very little data on this matter is available on most firms. But I have estimates on seven super-giants. Reports are that each does between a third to two thirds or more of its entire business with the federal government. These major concerns are not alone in their dependency; the problem extends to thousands more.

This dependency leads inevitably, in too many cases, to coziness, overfriendly relationships ending in free hunting trips, expensive gifts, employment at high salaries after retirement from the government, regardless of restrictions written into law. These gifts are tied to special favors — tax concessions, easy approval of cost overruns, overpricing of alterations, expense padding, the ignoring of defects and the easy allowing of late deliveries resulting from sloppy inefficiencies.

With the fate of so many companies dependent on one source — the government — pressures and temptations are too great.

The companies slowly lose touch with competitive markets and become as bureaucratic as the government agencies they serve. The key to success is neither efficiency or excellence, but an ability to handle proposals, negotiations and cost overruns in a manner most satisfactory to officials on the government side of the fence. Success thus falls to those firms which have the best word merchants. Workmanship — or lack of it — comes to have little bearing.

Because profits, too often, are a percentage of costs, the greater the cost the greater the profit. Inefficiency pays off. If a company shows signs of going broke, it is, more often than not, bailed out in the public interest, usually indirectly and without fanfare, through special contracts.

This manner of doing thing is not good for defense, for the civilian functions of our government, for the taxpayer, or, in the long run, for company stockholders. For a dependent firm, like the saber-toothed tiger of old, becomes so adapted to one way of life, a major shift in government policy could mean its demise.

Just in jest

Please do not misinterpret today's remarks. I have no fault to find with legitimate lawsuits to collect damages. But here lately, every time I pick up any newspaper, the more convinced I become that a lot of smart operators have decided that one of the best ways to achieve financial independence is to sue somebody, some company or some organization for three times what they are worth, hoping to compromise on maybe a third of the asking price.

And since such fields as automotive liability and medical malpractice are now being worked overtime, the smart get rich quick operators are now looking about for new alleged culprits on whom to pin the financial rap. Just to show you what opportunities for a quick buck original thinking can generate, my newspaper now informs me that a 33 year old man is considering suing his parents for $100,000 because they had him circumcised when he was an infant.

Social Security a vicious tax

WASHINGTON — When Social Security was proposed, back in the 1930s, Franklin D. Roosevelt didn't like the idea at all. Then one of his braintrusters told him, "But think of all the money it will bring into the federal treasury." The president suddenly became a believer.

Since then, Social Security has become a sacred cow. Through Congress and every government economist know that the Social Security fund is bankrupt — and bankrupting the country — no one dares to speak out against what has become the most vicious and regressive tax in the country.

Scott Burns has put all the facts and figures together for Playboy magazine which, surprisingly enough, has more in it than gatefolds of naked ladies and news of the radical chic.

The Social Security fund, Burns claims, has liabilities of $2.4 trillion. This is nearly five times the federal debt, twice as large as the gross national product, and roughly equal "to the value of all financial assets owned by all Americans, including all corporate stock, all corporate bonds, all government securities, all cash, all demand deposits and savings and all the pension-fund rights. The Social Security system owes a sum about equal to what everybody has."

Today, half of America's wage earners are paying more to Social Security than they do to the Internal Revenue Service in income taxes.

Its liabilities exceed its assets by 50 to one. The fund has less than $60 billion in the kitty and is spending $58 billion a year in benefits. By the early 1980s, the fund will have an empty cupboard.

"In less than 40 years," Burns says, "a small tax whose purpose was to put a floor under incomes for the elderly has grown to the point where it is a burden on everyone who works and on the economy itself." It takes so much out of the taxpayer's pocket that he has little left for savings — which means that industry has nowhere to go for the funds necessary to maintain growth. And growth means jobs. Americans save only some 6 per cent of their disposable income, as compared to 15 to 19 per cent among the Japanese.

The bankruptcy of the Social Security system can be laid squarely on the shoulders of Congress which has raised benefits without giving a thought to the availability of funds. This is a good way to get votes — or was.

But, in defense of Congress, it must be pointed out that bankruptcy was always inherent in the system. Congress simply refused to do anything about it.

Social Security is like a chain letter. With the birth rate steadily climbing, it was argued, each succeeding generation would pick up the tab for the previous and smaller generation.

But the birth rate is steadily declining, and the ratio of people working to people retiring is leveling off.

Zero population growth means the collapse of Social Security, unless payments to the fund are raised — which the low-income taxpayer, who is the hardest hit by the system, is not likely to tolerate.

What Scott Burns does not tell us is that if every American who has been paying more and more into the Social Security fund had used that money to invest in an annuity, he would be in far better shape, with a far more comfortable old age ahead for him.

Think on these things

The customer is not always right in any season, much less a time when shopping is at its highest peak. Everyone is a customer at some time and no one is right all the time.

Buyers and sellers are similar to pedestrians and drivers, each thinks he has the right of way. But a little restraint and a lot of courtesy can ease the question of who should be the first to give. Seeing the other person's point of view can bring out the common sense attitude so that one of the nicest gifts we can give is patience. Then, maybe it will be given back to us when we're on the other side of the counter.

'AWOL' Marine's status clarified

This is regarding the $250 allotment that I should be receiving monthly from my husband, who is in the Marines.

I have not received any money for the past two months.

A letter came to me saying that my husband was reported to be in "an unauthorized absence status."

My husband has never been AWOL from the Marine Corps. He entered the service in March and graduated from basic training in June. He received his orders for duty at Twentynine Palms.

He never went to Twentynine Palms because he received orders canceling the previous ones and sending him to the Balboa Naval Hospital in San Diego. He had dental surgery performed and was in the hospital for a month and a half. He did not request this surgery. The dentist in basic training requested, or should I say, ordered it.

When my husband was finally discharged from the hospital he was stationed in San Diego for a month awaiting his orders to Twentynine Palms. During this time I received a letter from Twentynine Palms informing me that he was AWOL and that there was a warrant out for his arrest.

I had to make 10 long-distance telephone calls to San Diego and Twentynine Palms to explain the changes in his orders. I got nowhere.

Luckily I know a lady whose husband is in the Pomona Police Department. He got the warrant removed and informed the officers at Twentynine Palms that my husband was awaiting his orders.

When my husband came home for the 10-day leave which he had never received in June after basic training, he told me he had filled out the proper papers for my allotment to continue when his duty station was changed.

It is really hard to not get any money for over two months when you are expecting it. I am working but I am pregnant and I need this money. — S. L., Pomona.

When we contacted the Marine Corps Finance Center, we were informed that because of the federal Privacy Act, answers to your questions couldn't be given me but would go to your husband's commanding officer.

Nearly a month later you telephoned to say your husband had been transferred to Camp Pendleton near Oceanside and that you had received $750 representing three months' back allotment.

* * *

I've got a problem with the Veterans Administration. I am a daughter of a veteran but have not been receiving my educational benefits.

After attending Sawyer College, I enrolled in Chaffey College. At the time I filed a change of program form. I've called the VA time and time again. They said they'd get to it but I can't afford much more time without money. — B. P., Pomona.

We received this letter in August. The VA responded to our inquiry the same month and we thought everything was straightened out.

Then we got several telephone calls from your husband, who said you had not received your money.

We wrote twice to the VA. An Ontario representative of the U. S. Postal Service phoned to say you had lived in Ontario before residing in Pomona and the checks had reverted to your old address.

We wrote to the VA again. A VA representative said you had given your old Ontario address when you enrolled at Chaffey because you wouldn't have been accepted at the college as a Pomona resident.

Your husband never explained this in his complaints to us.

We have been told that a check for $540 had been re-issued to you after having been returned by the post office in Ontario and that you were able to pick up another check unopened at the post office.

We hope your husband's resolution and yours for 1976 is to tell the whole truth, thereby saving a lot of time and trouble for people who try to help you.

Ann Landers

Twins harassed by gawkers

Dear Ann Landers: I read your column every day and have never seen a problem like mine.

I had twin daughters three months ago. Whenever I take them out in the pram I feel as if I'm putting on a side show.

Dozens of people stop and say, "Oh, they're identical! How can you tell them apart?" I say, "They are NOT identical. Each child has her own personality. There are definite differences in their features." Then the fools look for identifying characteristics and start to compare the two babies. ("That one's eyes are rounder. This one's mouth is smaller.")

It burns me up to have my children picked to pieces by strangers. What can I do about it? — Mother of Two Individuals

Dear Mother: Plenty. And I hope you will start immediately for the sake of the children, as well as your own.

Tell the gawkers you don't permit anyone to make verbal comparisons in the presence of the children.

If you don't put a stop to it now it won't be long before the clods will be saying, "This one has prettier eyes and that one seems friendlier." When that sort of talk begins (and you can be sure it will) you'll have double trouble on your hands.

Dear Ann: Why would a husband prefer to go outside and urinate when the bathroom is on the first floor of his home?

We live in a very fashionable neighborhood and Lord knows how many people have seen him. When I tell the nut that I am horrified by this practice he says I have a hang-up and there's nothing wrong with it. What's the answer? — JFN

Dear JFN: What's the question? Is he cuckoo? The answer is yes. He could also be arrested if a neighbor should catch his act and decide he doesn't care for that type of sprinkler system. Send him a get-well card. He's sick.

Dear Ann Landers: Mary has been my friend for 18 years. I'm 40 and unmarried. One night when I was visiting in her home I admired the kitchen ceiling and asked what kind of paint she used. She said, "I'll have Bob get some for you." That's how it all began. Bob had never been inside my apartment before. He came with the paint last Saturday, and in no time at all he did the ceiling.

When I thanked him, he suddenly blurted out that I was the sexiest woman he had ever met and he had a secret desire for me. I was stunned and disgusted and practically shoved him out the door. The next day he phoned to say I MUST see him. His psychologist says he needs a woman to talk to and I'm that woman. Now I feel rotten for not helping him solve his life's problems. Please advise at once. — Cow-Licked In Kansas

Dear K.: So his psychologist says he needs a woman to talk to? Well, how about his wife? Or a woman therapist?

If Bob calls again, read my advice to him right out of the paper. Then hang up.

Bowling across the country

Those of us who are alive tomorrow, whether we want to be or not, will take part in the annual Jan. 1 ritual of watching bowl games from morning to night.

Women can't understand a man's interest in sitting in front of a television set all day watching herds of overdeveloped young men slug each other into insensibility. No one can understand women, either, so it comes out even.

In truth, after a night's revelry such as a great many of you latter-day bacchants will indulge in tonight, the outcome of those football games won't seem quite as vital to you tomorrow as it did the previous morning.

All of the bowl games are preceded by those dreary, interminable, nearly-identical parades of flower-decked floats, bands, mounted riders, baton twirlers, clowns on unicycles and a regiment of "queens" and "princesses" in off-shoulder gowns, smiling demurely and waving to the television cameras.

If the sight of several million otherwise rational people absorbed in this lunitic spectacle doesn't send the man from Mars back into outer space shaking his heads in wonder, the subsequent proceedings in a dozen concrete porridge tureens certainly will.

At the Rose Bowl, so-called from the hyacinths that abound in Pasadena, Othio State will maul UCLA, which has only lost two games this season and wants to make it an even three. This is called "The granddaddy of bowl games" by sportswriters, the perennial sophomores of journalism. It may be because Grandpa is the only one who wants to watch it, and he just likes to ogle the drum majorettes, the old rascal.

Our eyeballs have already begun to form a gentle glaze from the Gator Bowl, or tank, Monday (Maryland vs. Florida), and the Sugar Bowl (Penn State vs. Alabama) and the Peach Bowl (West Virginia vs. North Carolina State) today. But the fun really starts today for the men in striped shirts and white pantaloons, the beer distributors and the bartenders. Now the nation goes bowling with Georgia-Alabama (Cotton), and Rose (vide supra), and Michigan-Oklahoma (Orange). Tell your wife you'll talk to her about that divorce at half-time.

By the end of the day you'll only remember that Alabama beat UCLA in the Orange Bowl, and a Georgia cornerback intercepted an Ohio State pass in the Peach Bowl. The day will be a blur of blocked kicks, bare-legged cheerleaders, 15-yard penalties and cute bands in white spats waving their tubas in unison. You probably won't even recall that Skidmore beat Vassar in the Yale Bowl, the great-granddaddy of bowl games.

The best thing about bowl games is halftime when you make yourself a sandwich and pop another beer. You may even have time to drop off for a short nap on the couch.

And if you're smart, you'll sleep right through till supper.

Dr. Lamb

Best diet for the elderly

DEAR DR. LAMB — We are residents of a so-called life care center. The head of our medical staff tells residents that after age 70 they should throw away their diet sheets and eat anything they please. Dr. Paul Dudley White stated people should not wait for the doctor to prescribe a low cholesterol diet but start it at age 20.

My wife comes from a family that inherited arterial weakness. At age 61 an aneurysm was removed from my wife's aorta and a low cholesterol diet was prescribed for her. My wife is now confined to the nursing pavilion and has been placed on a regular diet by order of the head of our medical staff.

Is the doctor guilty of attempted genocide as a matter of business expediency? The faster apartments are vacated, the greater is the income for his retirement center.

DEAR READER — I understand your concern, and I do prefer for people to follow the recommendations of the Inter-Society Commission for Heart Disease which does recommend restrictions on both fat and cholesterol (they are not the same thing).

In older people the problem often is getting them to eat at all. I would presume that your staff doctor is more interested in taking care of the immediate problem of being sure that everyone gets a well balanced diet or will eat enough than he is with the problem of overeating and the special considerations that might be helpful for some.

Many investigators wonder how much good you can accomplish with diet after age 70 in the prevention of artery disease. There is also a general tendency to gloss over medical problems in the elderly with the common assumption that when you are that old you should expect to have some problems, or it is natural to be in poor health.

Many of the changes commonly called old age are really illnesses and deserve treatment just as much as illnesses in children do. If you want to read a short report about this send in 50 cents for The Health Letter on Aging, number 1-7, with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelop for mailing. Mail your request to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019. It discusses the factors related to aging and some of the things that can be done to prevent these problems.

It is entirely possible that a healthy person with good living habits can usually expect to live past 100, rather than the current life span of about 68 for men and 74 for women. We have a lot to learn about stretching the middle years of one's life and enjoying a vigorous life for many more years. Many of the factors that influence aging, though, are the things we do in terms of living patterns.

You should discuss your wife's problem with the staff doctor. If she is not overweight and if her blood tests show she has a normal cholesterol level she won't need a diet for those problems.

In any case I'm sure your doctor is not practicing genocide. He is probably very busy and is trying to do the best for her present condition.

The Alcatraz coup was given that name back in the early '30s when a particularly slimy expert first tried it. Today's hand illustrates this play at its worst.

South is worried about the 10 of trumps. He is going to have to ruff the third heart. If West started with three spades to the 10 South won't be able to shut it out. If he started with 10 and one South can ruff high and pick it up but if West started with two small and South ruffs high it is going to establish the 10 in the East hand.

Our unsavory character found a way to have his cake and eat it too. He ruffed the second heart with the nine of trumps. West overruffed with the 10. Dummy asked, "No hearts, partner" and South found a heart.

He took back his nine, followed suit, proceeded to ruff high the next time, dropped West's 10 and managed to make the contract. He gave it back after West threatened to punch him in the nose and North told West to go ahead.

Ask the Jacobys

Today's article was prompted by a Cleveland reader's request about what to do when someone perpetrates an Alcatraz coup.

In duplicate the director should not only adjust the score in favor of the victim, but if he believes that the offense was deliberate, should assess a severe disciplinary penalty. In any major tournament he surely would and the tournament committee would back him up. In rubber bridge games it is up to the other players to see that the offender mends his ways.

WHAT TOO MANY amateur birdhunters can't seem to get through their heads is the effective range of the average shotgun. Say 55 or 65 yards. They go on banging away at out-of-range fowl, scarring the landscape with nothing but noise. So reports a seasoned shooter.

DOCUMENTARY

The best documentary film I've ever seen is "The Rise and Fall of the CIA."

DO YOU KNOW how the early Chinese made the first hams? They pickled them in wine brine and smoked them over tea leaves.

ARGUMENT CONTINUES as to whether a panda is a raccoon or a bear. Thought that was settled. Vincent Sarich of the University of California did a microscopic study on the blood proteins of the beasts. Unquestionably, says he, a panda is a bear.

PRETZELS

World's first pretzels were turned out by French monks in A.D. 610. The strips of dough were crisscrossed to represent arms folded in prayer.

If you can't name the 12 countries that border on Soviet Russia, your old geography teacher would be ashamed of you. Norway, Finland, Poland, Hungary, Romania, Turkey, Iran, China, North Korea, Afghanistan, Mongolia and Czechoslovakia. No other nation has as many frontiers to guard. Some contend that has made the Russian national spirit a bit paranoid.

Octogenarian physician

Reviews practice

By BRENDAN RILEY
Associated Press Writer

SMITH, Nev. (AP) — When Dr. Mary Fulstone began making house calls in a rattling pickup truck 55 years ago, the thorny issues physicians now face were nonexistent, but the new hassles aren't slowing her down.

"I suppose I'll practice until I die," said the 83-year-old woman, who has practiced medicine longer than any other Nevada doctor — from the kitchen of her rambling ranch house in rural Smith Valley.

"Doctor Mary" is bothered by spiraling malpractice insurance rates, the ways government-funded health programs operate, the debate over a patient's right to die, and the new doctor's tendency to specialize instead of going into general practice.

But the hassles are overshadowed by the rewards of being a country doctor.

"I've been in on everything in these peoples' lives — the good things and the bad too. It's like being part of each family.

"I guess I should retire sometime, but I don't know when," she said in an interview at her home-office. "We could use another doctor out here, and maybe when that happens, I'll start to edge myself out."

When she started her practice here in 1920, Doctor Mary caught some residents off guard. They wanted a doctor because the only other physician was in Yerington, about 20 miles away, but they weren't expecting a woman.

The ranchers and miners, however, "were glad to have a doctor here for the first time. Now these people have become like a family to me," she said.

Since then, she has seen countless patients, delivered nearly 4,000 babies, and made herself so well known that even telephone operators skip her last name when giving out her phone number.

Along with the doctoring, she raised five children of her own, took an active role in upgrading medical facilities in the area and got herself elected to the state Board of Education. She has been on that panel for 19 years.

She still keeps a full schedule, even though she has had some health problems of her own recently, resulting in operations on her back and on an eye.

Doctor Mary sees patients daily in her home, then sees more patients at the hospital and at her second office in Yerington. On a busy day, she'll handle 30 to 40 persons.

She has seen many changes in her field.

But one new trend — letting fathers into delivery rooms when their children are being born — is nothing new to her.

"It's all the fashion now," she said. "But I used to deliver babies at homes, and the fathers always helped me."

Doctor Mary doesn't see herself as a women's rights advocate even though she has accomplished many of the goals for which women are now pressing.

"I just never have associated myself with the womens' lib movement," she said. "My way of thinking is that you get your rights, your needs met, through your own efforts and work.

"If you're busy, you're not restricted because of your sex in the practice of medicine," she added.

"Being a country doctor, I don't always go by the appointment book. People just come here to see me. They know where I'll be."

Fantasy of violence

DEAR DR. BROTHERS: I'm an angry man and I feel I have to let off steam to someone about my feelings. No one seems to want to listen so I'm taking this opportunity to explode to you to see if you have any answers.

Within the last year, two acquaintances of mine have been victims of violence. My secretary was attacked by a rapist on her way home from my office and she is still suffering from the psychological damage. A male colleague was mugged and robbed by a man with a record as long as your arm. This man was under a doctor's care and it turned out he'd threatened to commit acts of violence many times.

Why on earth can't someone do something to protect innocent citizens from these brutal attacks. It seems to me doctors aren't doing their duty when they fail to report threats and the police and courts aren't doing their duty when they fail to lock them up. It all makes a person want to take the law into his own hands! — N.T.

Dear N.T.: One of the problems is that many people have fantasies of violence and it's difficult for doctors to predict the risk of whether or not a patient is actually going to act out his fantasies. The doctors fear that if they broke the confidence of their patients, the patients would soon stop talking and this would lead to more violence than we now see, for they might have no outlet for their resentment. Often, patients get rid of tremendous anger just by talking with their doctors and verbally expressing all of their rage. If this outlet were cut off and if the patients felt threatened, it might do much more harm than good.

Psychiatry doesn't know as much as it is expected to know about life-threatening behavior. I think almost all experts admit that they can't be absolutely sure when a person is going to commit a violent crime. If they knew this, of course, many tragedies could be avoided.

Violent crimes have increased more than 90 per cent in the last five years and violent juvenile crimes have increased 167 per cent in the last ten years. There are many explanations for why we are experiencing so much violence. We do know that it tends to feed upon itself and it becomes contagious. In this sense, the media may help to foster violence. We've become so used to reading about and seeing crimes reenacted on television that we've developed a high level of tolerance. People eventaully may become so accustomed to violence that when they're frustrated or angry, they lose their inhibitions and act out their rage. We tend to imitate what we see around us. A Los Angeles psychiatrist, Dr. Isidore Ziferstein, says we become psychologically habituated to violence.

Some see the increased violence as a result of crowding and the fact that our urban life simply dosen't provide enough space between selfassertive individuals so they are able to avoid conflict. Some feel that violence begins in the home and that the breakdown of the family is responsible. There seems to be some relationship between violence and homes where the father is missing, or where he is weak and inadequate, or cruel and punitive.

I am deeply sympathetic to your outrage, but there is no easy answer. However, if individuals decided "to take the law into their own hands" the situation would only become worse. This is not a solution. The police and the courts are trying to do the best job they can, but we know that reform is needed in all areas.

I'm glad you wrote to express your own rage. Perhaps, learning to express our anger in words rather than deeds is a first step in solving the problem of violence.

Cleaning hint

DUST CLOTHS AND POLISHING CLOTHS MUST BE CLEAN to handle household chores. Wash frequently. First shake out loose dirt and dust. Then machine wash in hot water with other heavily-soiled items. Use additional detergent or soap for extra soily cloths.

Theme

Of all the printed messages on Christmas cards this year and in the past, which is the most popular? According to George L. Parker, creative director of Hallmark Cards, "Merry Christmas" is first by a wide margin. Next comes "Peace On Earth."

New face

For a late afternoon pickup, when you don't have time to redo your make-up, blot your face with oil-absorbing make-up freshseners. Then apply fresh lipstick, mascara and rouge, and, if needed, eye brow pencil.

Rozelle issue not over

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (AP) — A ruling that the National Football League's Rozelle Rule violates antitrust laws appeared headed for higher courts today as debate raged over whether the decision will wreck professional sports.

Judge Earl Larson of U.S. District Court ruled Tuesday that elimination of the rule binding a player to one team would not harm the NFL's competitive balance or quality of play.

The ruling, in effect, said the NFL cannot restrict players from selling their services in a free and open market.

Larson ordered the NFL and its 26 teams to cease enforcing the rule, but imposition of the judgment was stayed to give the league an opportunity to appeal.

Before NFL officials in New York asked club owners not to comment on the decision, President Max Winter of the Minnesota Vikings said he was positive there will be an appeal "as soon as our lawyers have studied it."

And Dallas Cowboys president and general manager, Tex Schramm, said he "anticipated the case would be appealed and the final judgement would be made by the Supreme Court, if necessary. What action follows from this point obviously is a matter for the league's general counsel."

NFL Commissioner Pete Rozelle, after whom the rule is named, confirmed that league attorneys were studying the matter, and no decision on an appeal would be made until their findings were known.

Rozelle said he was "disappointed" with the ruling. Winter said he was "absolutely astonished," and Schramm added, "Obviously, I am disappointed."

But in Los Angeles, the reaction to the ruling from Mackey was quite the opposite. "Oh, am I feeling good, we won, it's like winning the Super Bowl," the former All-Pro said.

"This isn't only a victory for football players. This is a victory for every man in America. Everyone has scored a touchdown."

Mackey said the ruling should have a positive effect on players' dealings with club owners.

"I'm not saying all owners are bad. They're not. There are some fine ones," he said. "But it's going to make those owners who are bad, who haven't learned how to treat playrs properly, treat them with respect. It will now give the players a little edge, make owners treat them with respect and dignity."

The first step in taking the issue to the Supreme Court would be an appeal to the U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals in St. Louis. That would give the NFL a chance for a delaying action to decide on how it will ultimately meet the situation.

Some NFL officials thought the ruling would be especially damaging to "smaller" coldweather clubs such as the Vikings and the Green Bay Packers. But Bob Harlan, the Packers' corporate general manager, saw little immediate impact on the club. Harlan discounted the prospect that several players will abandon the slumping Packers.

Ed Garvey, NFL Players Association executive director, saw no major disruption of the league nor widespread movement of players.

"There will be some movement during the first year or so, where you have some players who want to play in a particular place because it's their home or they want to live there," Garvey said in Washington.

"But by and large, people don't want to move. They want to stay where they are, because they are married or have kids in school.

"Players, like other workers, are reluctant to just pick up and move simply because somebody has offered them a couple of thousand dollars more," Garvey added.

The Rozelle rule says a team may not sign a free agent, who has played one year past the final year of his contract, without compensating the player's former team. That compensation can take the form of players or draft choices, or both. If the two clubs cannot agree on compensation, Rozelle makes the decision.

Garvey estimated that 45 to 50 players are in their option year and could become free agents on May 1.

"We think the league will flourish," Garvey said. "Now what happens is that the system rewards incompetence and bad management by forcing people to stay in that system. If players can move away from bad management, it will change and quite frankly we believe the poor teams can improve more rapidly."

Judge Larson's ruling came nearly six months after completion of a trial in a suit brought by former Baltimore Colts player John Mackey and 14 current and former NFL players.

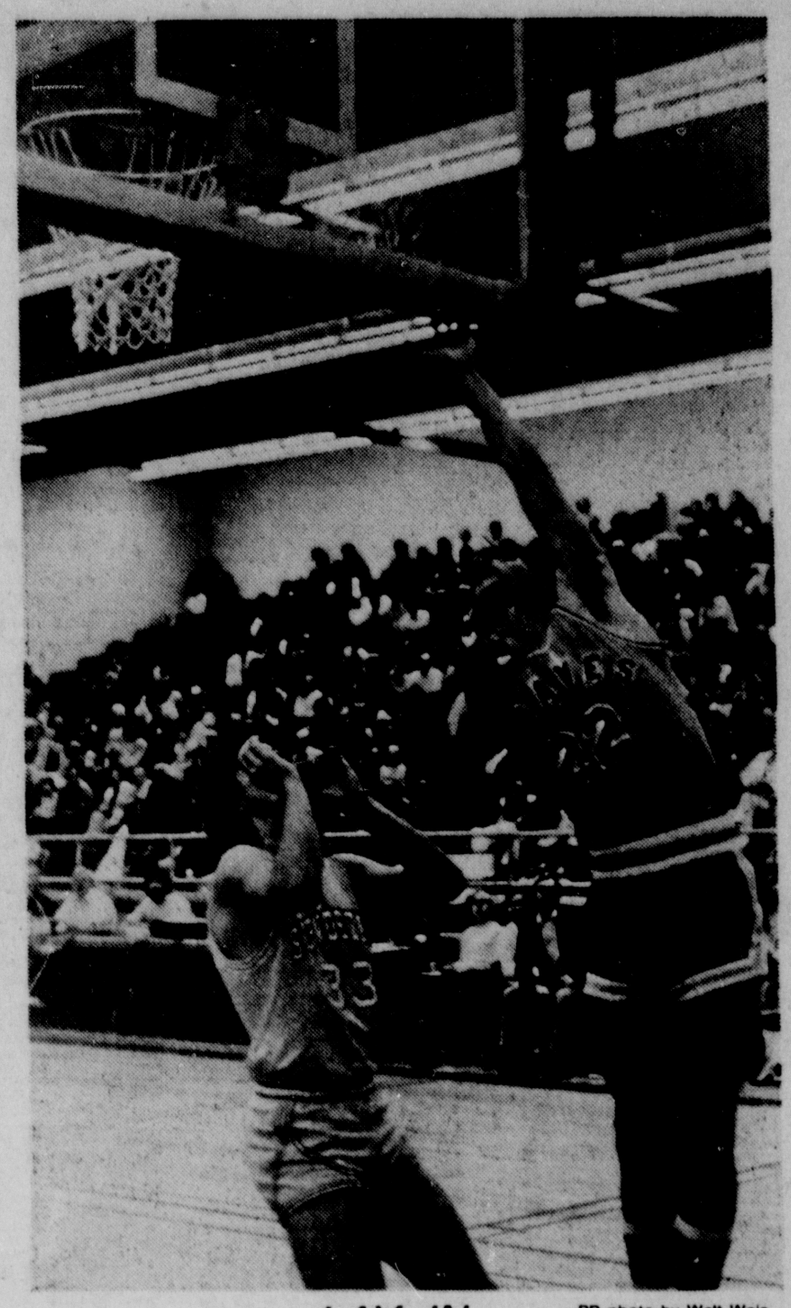

Alan Page, Vikings defensive tackle who was Minnesota player representative for four years, said he was "overjoyed" by the court decision.

"We've certainly come a long way from when we started this," Page said. "We've taken some pretty good beatings aiong the way. But this...well, you know there is hope. You know that we are not fighting a losing cause. Someone else believes we are right."

Rozelle said the NFL had hoped the court would find antitrust laws "sufficiently flexible to accommodate the unique and special needs of a professional football league.

"We continue to believe that collective bargaining offers the best solution to the broad range of labor-management issues in professional football," Rozelle said, "and that team equalization rules have served and will continue to serve the interest of fans, players and clubs alike."

In Washington, Rep. John F. Seiberling, D-Ohio, a prime sponsor of legislation to prohibit the rule, said he welcomed "the end of the Rozelle Rule. The future of football and other professional sports is not in any way threatened by this court decision.

Lakers just bad in losing 'effort'

By DON BRADLEY
PB Staff Writer

INGLEWOOD — The Lakers' timing was as bad as their performance Tuesday night.

It was a poor time to come up with one of their worst games of this season or any season. But the 112-100 loss to the visiting Seattle Supersonics was terribly damaging to their division title dreams.

What it did was drop the Angelenos 4½ games behind the streaking Golden St. Warriors. Worse, at 21-15, they now have seven more losses than the 23-8 warriors.

The Lakers have only two more home games (Friday and Sunday nights) and then don't play at home again until Jan. 25. They go against Golden St. home and home Friday and Saturday. Portland returns Sunday.

Whether the Angelenos were looking ahead to the Warriors, thinking about New Year's Eve or were just tired after playing four games in five days is not known.

The fact remains, they played horribly Tuesday night. How bad was it? Well, it was so bad not even the ice (for hockey) under the flour could kill the odor. There was little defense and on offense they turned the ball over 28 times.

The Lakers spoiled their own New Year's Eve. Instead of the day off they were going to have today, coach Bill Sharman called an 11 a.m. meeting and practice.

"We'll go over films, practice and go over everything," Sharman said after a 20-minute post-game meeting ended. "Gollee! We've just lost our momentum entirely and it was so important to build some going into this weekend.

"I think the first five or six minutes of that third quarter just killed us . . . that bad passing!"

The third quarter was bad . . . 10 turnovers while being outscored 34-26. But the trouble actually started near the end of the first half.

Leading by five points, 48-43 with 2:51 left, Sharman's team went into a swoon and never recovered. Donnie Freeman's bucket with 2:13 remaining was their last points of the quarter.

As usual the Lakers blew an attempt at running the clock down and making the last shot. This time Freeman missed the shot. Usually it's Gail Goodrich. Whatever the problem, the Angelenos are almost inept at this important phase of the game. They either fail to get a shot off at all or miss it.

As a result the lead was down to one point, 50-49, at intermission. When the third quarter began, it was another 3:46 before Kareem Abdul Jabbar made the first bucket. That's nearly six minutes (5:59 to be exact) between baskets.

It wasn't that the Lakers were missing that much. Rather, it was because they couldn't get the ball down the floor without turning it over.

They turned it over 10 times in each of the last two quarters.

Jabbar had 16 of Los Angeles' 26 points (He had 28 for the night). Goodrich had eight and Cazzie Russell scored the other two.

Meanwhile Fred Brown was pouring in 12 of his 34 points for Seattle. Brown connected on 17 of 26 field goal attempts in the game but didn't shoot a single free throw.

Again Sharman had trouble with his forwards. Rookie Don Ford played 20 minutes, 14 in the first half, and scored all eight of his points in the first quarter before going cold. He had four rebounds.

Russell scored 21 points, 11 of them in a nine-minute period in the first half. He scored just nine in 20 minutes in the second half.

Cornell Warner, who had been averaging 10 rebounds a game over the last 11 games, grabbed only four and scored two points.

Jabbar was outrebounded by Tom Burleson, 15-14. Burleson had 22 points. What hurt the most was Seattle was not impressive. The Lakers simply could not play the game.

The no-shows had the right idea. Although 12,740 tickets were sold, the 17,505-seat Forum was less than half full.

LAKER LEFTOVERS — While an ice show takes over the Forum for three weeks the Lakers will be playing in Buffalo, Boston, Philly, Milwaukee, Chicago, Oakland and Portland.

Team play wins title for A.L.

By GRAHAM CROW
PB Correspondent

"It's been a long time coming. A VERY long time."

That was how Alta Loma High basketball coach Jeff McCall summed up his feelings Tuesday night after his finely tuned Brave squad defeated Mt. Carmel of San Diego 51-43 for the Chino Basketball Tournament title.

Playing "team" basketball to perfection, Alta Loma relied on fine defense, good passing and some cool heads to grab its first basketball tournament title in recent memory.

The host Chino High Cowboys also scored a much relished win with a 45-43 squeaker over North of Riverside for third place honors. Ganesha grabbed the consolation championships from Cerritos, 80-60, while Santa Ana nailed down fifth place with a 62-57 triumph over Escondido.

But the class of this 35th annual event turned out to be the Braves of Alta Loma, whose only loss in 12 games this year came in the finals of the Upland-Montclair Tournament against Garey.

"We played good team defense all the way through," explained McCall. "Before the season began, I felt that this group of players had the potential to be better than last year's 19-9 team and so far their work has paid off greatly."

While it was easy, and a pleasure, for the tournament officials to award the championship medals to members of the Alta Loma squad, they did have problems trying to decide which Braves should be represented on the All-Tourney Team.

Once again the championship tilt was a true team effort for the winners as third year starter Anthony Vasquez led the way with 12 points while Jeff Anderson added 10. The other starters, 6-8 Rich Davis, and guards Matt Roberts and Jamie Eagle each added eight.

For the four games in the tournament, Davis was the leading scorer for his team with an 11 point average while Eagle, the team's floor general, was low of the starting quintet with an eight point average.

Finally, and only after much debate, tourney officials place Vasquez, Davis and Eagle on the All-Tourney group which also included George Terry (Ganesha), Bobbie Steward (Santa Ana), Steve Lochridge (Escondido), Jimmy Love (Chino), James McCloud (North) and Mt. Carmel's Mike Doucet and Rod Dingler.

The win was the fifth straight for Alta Loma and snapped a six game winning streak for the surprising Sun Devils. And the game pointed up once again that if you want to hurt the Braves, you'd better do it early.

Limiting their opponents to only 54, 55, 47 and 43 points in the four tourney games, the Braves were exceptionally tough in the first eight minute stanza. Edgewood and North each scored 10 while Temple City and Mt. Carmel managed just six.

The Sun Devils had a lot to do with their opening period miseries in the deciding game, shooting a miserable 12.5 per cent from the floor (two of 16). For the game they were only 31.5 percent.

Alta Loma, which opened up a 15 point lead midway through the third period, shot a frigid 34 percent itself. Dingler, who almost was his whole team, kept the game close with 19 points and 17 rebounds, but it was the total five man performance by the Braves that made the difference.

Mt. Carmel, behind the shooting of Dingler in the fourth period, clawed to within six at one stage, 43-37, but Alta Loma iced the victory with a six point burst in the next two minutes.

Chino traveled throughout its game with favored North with the Cowboys picking up the upset win thanks to some fine clutch free throw shooting.

Behind 22-15 at the half, Chino was able to stay in the ball game by holding McCloud to his lowest point production of the tournament — 20 points.

Coach Bob Elder's team finally caught the Huskies with a minute and one half remaining in the game as Jeff Scott hit both ends on a one-and-one free throw situation to knot the score at 39-39.

Paul Iverson put Chino in front 20 seconds later, also making both halves of a one-and-one opportunity. McCloud's 15-footer tied it again at 41-41 before Iverson struck twice again from the foul line.

Woody doesn't like questions

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — Ohio State football Coach Woody Hayes, who had been a model of decorum since arriving here 10 days ago for the 62nd Rose Bowl game, unloaded on newsmen Tuesday night.

The 62-year-old coach had brought six of his players to a press conference to answer questions from reporters. Most of the questions and answers seemed innocuous enough, when suddenly Woody exploded.

"It was my mistake to have brought these players down here tonight," said Hayes. "We came here to win a national championship and I don't want them to do anything that's going to hurt us, and you have no right to expect any answers."

Then turning to his players, Hayes said, "Just tell them about Little Red Riding Hood."

Earlier the players, quarterback Cornelius Greene, tailback Archie Griffin, wingback Brian Baschnagel, linebacker Ken Kuhn, defensive halfback Craig Cassady and safety Tim Fox, had answered a number of noncontroversial questions—what type of problem UCLA would present Jan. 1, why Greene had such a good game against the Bruins last Oct. 4 and how important this game was to Griffin.

A reporter asked Fox how UCLA quarterback John Sciarra has improved since Oct. 4. Fox replied, "Sciarra is a fine quarterback. He's an excellent runner, one of the best we have faced..." when Hayes broke in.

"This doesn't help us," said the coach. "If you don't like it to hell with you. I've been good ol' Woody long enough."

A silence fell on the room and finally a reporter asked Hayes to ask each player a question of his own choosing. Hayes then became affable again and he began chatting in a normal tone of voice.

Alhambra will honor Sciarra

ALHAMBRA, Calif. (AP) — Alhambra Mayor Ernest Duncan announced Tuesday that Jan. 1, 1976, would be John Sciarra Day in this suburb of Los Angeles where the UCLA senior quarterback makes his home.

Sciarra, the 5-foot-10 All-American, leads the Bruins against Ohio State New Year's afternoon.

Safford pushes USC past Iowa

HONOLULU (AP)—Marv Safford poured in 30 points, including six in a row in the closing minutes, as Southern California surged to an 81-73 victory over previously unbeaten Iowa Tuesday night and won the Rainbow Classic championship.

In the consolation game, Arizona captured third place with an 84-74 victory over Hawaii.

Safford, a slender 6-foot-2 guard, tied the game for the Trojans at 69-69 with 4:53 to play. Then he scored two more baskets along with field goals from Casey Jones and Greg White to cap a decisive 10-0 spurt for the Trojans.

USC, now 10-1, squandered a 17-point lead earlier in the second half when 6-foot-8 Bruce "Sky" King went on a shooting rampage for Iowa. King, who netted 28 points, scored six field goals as Iowa rallied from a 59-42 deficit to go ahead 69-67 with five minutes left.

But Iowa went cold after that and the Hawkeyes made only two more field goals as USC pulled away to hand Iowa its first loss in 10 games.

USC broke a 37-37 tie late in the first half on a basket by Safford and went on to 43-37 lead at the intermission.

Iowa's Dan Frost, named the tournament's outstanding player, got into early foul trouble and finished with 13 points, as did teammate Scott Thompson. White scored 14 for the Trojans and 6-10 Steve Malovic had 13.

Named to the all-tournament team along with Frost were Safford, King, Arizona's Bob Elliott and Hawaii's Tommy Barker.

In the third-place game, Elliott and Al Fleming teamed for 42 points, trigering Arizona's victory over Hawaii.

Bartow still seeks right lineup

By BILL LANGLEY
PB Sports Editor

LOS ANGELES — UCLA basketball coach Gene Bartow is still looking for the right combination.

Obviously, he hopes to find it before Pacific-8 Conference play begins next week.

For the second straight night, starters Ralph Drollinger, Andre McCarter and Brad Holland were ineffective Tuesday in the finals of the Bruin Classic.

So Bartow inserted reserves Gavin Smith, Ray Townsend and Jim Spillane. They responded by leading the Bruins to a 99-86 win over Purdue to win another Bruin Classic championship and give UCLA 89 consecutive wins at Pauley Pavilion.

UCLA was obviously more impressive Tuesday than in Monday's tight 52-48 win over Santa Clara. Part of it can be attributed to Purdue's strategy of running with the Bruins rather than use Santa Clara's patient offense.

The Bruins led throughout the game but lacked the ability of putting it away. After romping to a 43-26 lead late in the first half, UCLA saw its margin dip to five points, 57-52, early in the second half.

Another spurt gave UCLA a comfortable 92-74 lead with 2:46 left as Bartow cleared the bench but Purdue made things interesting by scoring 10 straight points to force Bartow to return the first stringers for the final 50 seconds.

As usual, All-Americans Richard Washington and Marques Johnson were the key players for the Bruins.

Washington, who was selected the outstanding player in the Classic, scored a career high 33 points in making 14 of 23 field goals.

Johnson, the star of Monday's win, added 15 points and led the Bruins in rebounding with nine.

Spillane, the junior who had apparently lost his starting job earlier in the season, came off the bench to score 17 points (8-of-10 from the floor) and contribute five assists.

Townsend, another candidate for a starting guard assignment, added 14 points in making 6-of-10 shots and played tough defense in helping hold Purdue's Kyle Macy to 16.

Smith, who saw plenty of action when Drollinger got into foul trouble, scored seven points and was also outstanding on defense.

It's obvious Bartow will experiment some more this weekend when the Bruins close their pre-conference schedule by hosting Denver Friday night and Notre Dame in a national TV attraction at 1 p.m. Saturday.

The Bruins (8-1) open Pac-8 play next week by visiting Oregon and Oregon State and it should be interesting who will be at the guard spots.

In Tuesday's third place contest, Santa Clara held off a late St. Louis rally to post a 69-66 victory.

Malone may go to NBA's Jazz

NEW YORK (AP) — Turnabout being fair play, Moses Malone, who bypassed college to play with the Utah Stars, may soon jump from the American Basketball Association to the National Basketball Association.

The Stars, who enticed Malone to sign with them directly from high school last year, left the sports scene earlier this month. But before they folded, the Stars sold some of their key players, including Malone, to the Spirits of St. Louis.

Malone's attorney contends that his client's transfer was illegal, thus allowing Malone to sign with the New Orleans Jazz, who made Malone the No. 1 selection in Tuesday's special NBA draft.

"We've been having talks with New Orleans and we will continue to do so," said Lee Fentress, Malone's attorney. "Suffice it to say that there may not have been a valid assignment of contract and Moses Malone may soon play in the NBA."

Malone was the biggest name in Tuesday's special draft, which placed five players—Malone of St. Louis; Mark Olberding of San Antonio; Mel Bennett of Virginia; Charlie Jordan of Indiana, and Skip Wise, cut by San Antonio and not signed by any pro club.

In choosing Malone, who averaged 18.8 points and 14.6 rebounds as a 20-year-old rookie last season, the Jazz will be giving up their next available No. 1 pick, which is for 1977 since New Orleans lost its 1976 first-round pick in a prior trade.

The Los Angeles Lakers were the only other team to give up a future first-round pick in return for selecting one of the players in the special draft. In the first round, the Lakers selected Mark Olberding, who left the University of Minnesota to sign with the now-expired San Diego Sails and is presently with San Antonio.

'Bear' benches starters

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — The bright lights of Bourbon Street have put three starters for No. 4 Alabama in the doghouse for tonight's Sugar Bowl meeting with eighth-ranked Penn State.

The three starters were among 10 Crimson Tide players who missed midnight bed check Monday night. It was the second time in three days that a group of Alabama football players violated curfew, and Coach Bear Bryant announced that he was benching the three who didn't make it back to the hotel on time Monday night.

A special show had been scheduled for the Alabama and Penn State teams at a French Quarter jazz lounge Saturday night, but it ended well before curfew.

Benched for tonight's 4:30 p.m. PST kickoff were tight end Jerry Brown, linebacker Conley Duncan and defensive back Ray Bolden. The others missing bed check Monday night were reserves.

Ten of Alabama's starters and 13 other squad members were out past midnight Saturday, but Bryant apparently let them off with a warning. Those starters were Johnny Davis, quarterback Richard Todd, Ozzie Newsome, Dave Garasimchuck, Larry Ruffin, Terry Jones, Jerry Brown, Bob Baumhower and Greg Montgomery.

Mark Prudhomme, named to replace Bolden in the starting secondary, was also involved in the Saturday night curfew violation.

Woodrow Lowe will replace Duncan at the linebacker slot, and Joe Dale Harris will start at Brown's end spot.

"We tried to give them enough free time to see the sights," Bryant said after the Saturday escapade. "It's disappointing to me they should abuse it. But I don't think they did anything bad."

Bryant has been taking a deliberately soft approach to bringing his team up to tonight's contest—a tactic designed to break a nine-year victory drought in post-season games.

Although Bryant has 252 regular season victories to his credit, Alabama hasn't won a bowl game since 1966.

Bryant wants this one badly, so badly that he has been accused of hand-picking Penn State as his Sugar Bowl opponent—dodging more powerful teams in favor of an opponent he figured to beat.

Nebraska Coach Tom Osborne was one who accused Bryant of ducking him. Bryant was at least partially vindicated when Nebraska and two other Big Eight teams lost their bowl meetings.

Alabama, 10-1, has been installed a 13-point favorite over 9-2 Penn State, despite Coach Joe Paterno's 5-1-1 bowl record.

Paterno, who has an .844 winning percentage in 10 years as a head coach, said he doesn't pay attention to pregame predictions. "Maybe we shouldn't play the game," Paterno snapped. "Just program it and stick it in the computer.

Paterno said tonight's game will give the Nittany Lions "a chance to play against probably as great a football coach who has ever lived. Bear Bryant will go down in history with Knute Rockne as one of the greatest coaches who ever lived. He was my father's hero."

Chaffey gets by Damien

By BRENT SHYER
PB Correspondent

Chaffey High's Tigers growled, clawed, and finally scratched out a tough win over Damien, 1-0, in the Third Annual Damien High Invitational Soccer Tournament, Tuesday afternoon.

The victory nailed down the third place championship in the tourney for the Tigers. San Gabriel captured the tourney title by blanking Excelsior, 2-0, in Tuesday's final game.

Both teams had many good chances to get on the scoreboard, but some key saves by the goalies from each squad, as well as fine defense displayed by both teams, kept the contest close.

"We jammed up our defense so that they wouldn't score," said Tigers' coach Serian Stepaniah. "We knew we had to stop Rick Davis, so we kept them on our side of the field and stopped their offense by staying with Davis."

The game was played on equal terms through the first half. Both the Spartans and the Tigers played a wide open style, with good end-to-end action throughout the half.

Chaffey finally ended the scoring drought about ten minutes into the second half. Jack Castillon, who plays right wing, dribbled the ball down his side of the field and then found forward Frank Fernandez open in front of the net.

Castillon hit Fernandez with a perfect pass, and the forward booted it by Spartan goalie Andy Evans. As it turned out, that was to be the only tally in the game.

"They are a very fine team, and they scored when they had to," Spartan mentor Al Mistri said. "They were keying on Davis throughout the game and we had a couple of guys injured and not feeling well today that could normally start for us. I hope to meet them again in CIF play."

The Spartans finished with 13 shots on goal, while Chaffey kicked 19 on Evans. Tigers' netminder Javier Ramirez stopped four shots, while Damien's Evans held off nine opponent's kicks.

By winning, Chaffey upped its season mark to 7-4 and the Tigers captured third place in the tournament.

In the championship tilt, second half goals by John Duarte and Larry Villavicencio spelled victory for San Gabriel. The S.G. squad rolled past five straight tourney opponents to win the title.

Host Damien placed two men on the all-tourney team, Davis and sophomore fullback Pat Fahey. Both Frank and Marvin Fernandez made the all-tourney squad from Chaffey.

Maryland survives Princeton slowdown

By Associated Press

Pete Carril would love to play "Beat The Clock," but his players are much too slow for that. So he plays "Stall The Clock" instead.

"We did what we could," the Princeton coach said after trying to slow down Maryland's second-ranked smoothies Tuesday night in the Maryland Invitational Tournament.

Maryland's jet-setters streaked by the deliberate Tigers 66-59 to win the tournament and further enhance their lofty position in the college basketball polls.

"We'd have a nice team if we weren't so slow," Carril said. "If we were faster, the end result would be so much better. Maryland has a darned good basketball team."

Lefty Driesell, whose fastmoving Terps usually hit astronomical figures, was resigned to a low score because of Princeton's relatively quiet offense.

"I favor the 30-second clock," Driesell said. "But until we get one there's nothing wrong with playing a deliberate game. That's their perogative. That's Pete's style and he's been successful. I just don't like it personally."

In a consolation game of the Maryland tourney, eighth-ranked Alabama swamped Seton Hall 100-64.

Maryland wasn't the only hometown winner in tournaments Tuesday night. UCLA claimed the championship of its own Bruin Classic by beating Purdue 99-86; No. 6 Marquette won the Milwaukee Classic with an 82-66 victory over co-host Wisconsin; 10th-ranked NevadaLas Vegas wrapped up its Holiday Classic with a 108-94 triumph over 17th-ranked Michigan and 13th-ranked Washington blitzed Texas Tech 83-61 for the championship of the Far West Classic.

Elsewhere, 14th-ranked Rutgers beat Georgia Tech 94-87 in the championship game of the Poinsetta Classic; Long Island University surprised Centenary 80-78 in the finals of the All-College tournament; Missouri won the Big Eight Tourney with a 79-69 decision over Kansas; California took the Lobo Invitational with an 82-68 decision over West Virginia and Brigham Young won the Old Dominion Classic by beating Old Dominion 80-77.

Clemson stopped Davidson 72-54 to win the Charlotte Invitational; Southern Cal won the Rainbow Classic with an 81-73 triumph over Iowa; Louisiana Tech turned back Northeast Louisiana 76-63 to win the Pacemaker Classic; Idaho State took the Indiana Hall of Fame Classic by whipping Indiana State 76-74 in double overtime; Virginia Commonwealth turned back Michigan State 80-75 for the championship of the VCU Classic; South Alabama defeated Mississippi 70-54 in the finals of the Senior Bowl Tournament and Utah took the Kodak Classic with a 91-89 decision over Canisius.

In other games, No. 18 Kentucky upset No. 5 Notre Dame 79-77; 19th-ranked San Francisco whipped Los Angeles State 99-84 and DePaul stunned 20th-ranked LSU 70-67.

Two free throws by Mo Howard and another by John Lucas, all in the same play, helped Maryland shake off Princeton. The Terps, 9-0, led 53-48 when Howard was fouled by Armond Hill near midcourt.

Carril was incensed because Hill had fouled out, and drew a technical foul. Howard made both of his free throws and then Lucas added the technical foul shot to make it 56-48. The Terps built the lead to 61-50 before squandering part of it in the final minute on turnovers.

Bo Ellis and Butch Lee each scored 20 points to lead Marquette's runaway conquest of Wisconsin. Eddie Owens scored 32 points and Robert Smith added 20 as Nevada-Las Vegas beat Michigan.

Washington beat Texas Tech as James Edwards scored 26 points and Clarence Ramsey 21.

California got 16 points from Carl Bird and shot 63 per cent as a team to beat West Virginia. A free throw by Steve Craig and two foul shots by Troy Jones in the final minute gave Brigham Young its victory over Old Dominion. David Brown and Colon Abraham each scored 14 points to lead Clemson's victory over Davidson.

Rick Robey's tip-in after a missed free throw with two minutes left gave Kentucky its tense victory over Notre Dame. Bill Cartwright poured in 27 points, boosting San Francisco over Los Angeles State. DePaul's Ron Norwood scored 29 points to lead the Blue Demons past LSU.

Sports briefs

LOS ANGELES (AP) — John Jackson, an offensive backfield coach at Illinois the last five years, was added to the football staff of John Robinson at the University of Southern California, the school announced Tuesday.

Jackson, 39, becomes the fourth member of Robinson's staff. Jackson coached the backfield and receivers at Dartmouth in 1970 before joining Coach Bob Blackman at Illinois. Jackson is a 1956 graduate of New York University and as head coach at Boys High in Brooklyn in 1966 and 1967 he was named New York Metropolitan Coach of the Year.

DALLAS (AP) — Southern Methodist University has fired Dave Smith as head football coach after a stormy three-year tenure marred by probation and other problems.

Dr. James Zumberge, SMU president, said this step had been under consideration for 36 hours before a final decision was reached Tuesday night.

CARBONDALE, Ill. (AP) — Southern Illinois University named Rey Dempsey as head football coach Tuesday. Dempsey, 39, has coached for 18 years, including the past season with the Detroit Lions, heading their specialty unit.

Prior to coaching in the National Football League, Dempsey was head coach at Youngstown State University, where in two years he had a 12-7 record.

LANDOVER, Md. (AP) — Max McNab took over as general manager of the lowly Washington Capitals Tuesday and immediately named Tommie McVie of Dayton as his head coach.

McNab, 51, a former player who had been president of the Central Hockey League for the past year and a half, was named to replace Milt Schmidt, 57, who had been general manager of the Capitals since April, 1973 and coach since late last year.

WILLIAMSPORT, Pa. (AP) — Little League baseball has rescinded its rule banning foreign teams from the Little League World Series.

The board of directors of Little League, Inc., voted 12-1 at a recent meeting to reopen the series for 10-12-year-old youngsters to all comers.

The prohibition against foreign teams was ordered last year after the Taiwan team had won six straight Little League World Series.

Bruins play Tennessee

LOS ANGELES — UCLA and Tennessee, rivals in football and track, will meet in basketball on Saturday, Dec. 4, 1976, at the New Orleans Superdome.

The meeting was announced jointly by athletic directors Bob Woodruff of the Vols and J.D. Morgan of the Bruins.

Tigers, Knights knocked off

Both Chaffey and Ontario Christian highs took it on the chin in prep cage action Tuesday night.

San Gabriel eliminated Chaffey from the Covina Tourney with a 63-49 win, while OCHS fell to visiting Yucaipa 76-69 in a non-league, non-tourney affair.

Chaffey's Mark McQuaid had another big night with 27 points, but San Gabriel's Clay Brown topped him with a game-high 29.

The Tigers took a 2-0 lead at the outset and then fell behind, never to catch the San Gabriel five. The loss drops the Chaffey season mark to 3-4.

Yucaipa got 30 points from guard Dan Davidsmeier and 20 from 6-foot-7 center Blaine Barton to down OCHS at the Knights' gym. Barton also contributed 11 rebounds.

John VanderSchaaf and Hany Bouwman had 20 points apiece in a losing cause. With the loss the OCHS season ledger now reads 6-3. Yucaipa has a perfect 10-0 record so far this year.

Both Chaffey and OCHS will return to net action Friday night. The Tigers will host Upland at 8 p.m. while the Knights will entertain Notre Dame of Riverside, also at 8 p.m.

Our Lady of the Assumption School in Claremont will be holding its annual Holiday Basketball Tournament starting Friday at the school's gym.

Twelve teams from the surrounding area are entered in the tourney, which will run through Sunday. The tourney championship contest will be played Sunday at 6:45 p.m.

First round pairings are: St. Joseph of Upland vs. St. Luke's of Temple City, 8 a.m. Friday; Our Lady of Lourdes of Montclair vs. Ephipany of El Monte, 9 a.m. Friday; St. Margaret's of Chino vs. St. Anthony of San Gabriel, 10 a.m. Friday; St. George of Ontario vs. St. Louis of France of Bassett, 11 a.m. Friday; St. Joseph of Pomona vs. St. Martha's of La Puente, 12 noon Friday; St. Madeleine of Pomona vs. Our Lady of the Assumption of Claremont, 3:45 p.m. on Saturday.

Four games, in addition to the St. Madeleine-OLA contest, are on tap for Saturday. Eight tourney games will take place on Sunday.

Leos fall to Whittier in FOUR overtimes

CHICO — In a bizarre four-overtime thriller here Tuesday night, La Verne College dropped the Chico Invitational Tourney consolation finals to Whittier by an 80-74 score.

The contest set a record for the longest Chico Tourney game ever, as the two teams battled for 20 extra minutes until a Whittier blitz in the fourth overtime settled the issue.

Strangely, despite the extra sessions no one in the game fouled out for either team, and only one player had as many as four fouls. Both La Verne and Whittier were called for 16 infractions, the Leos taking only nine free throw attempts all night.

The outing started on a unusual note and continued that way throughout, as Leo guard Mike Winze (a 6-footer) was cited for dunking the ball in WARMUPS by a game official who happened to be in the gym. Thus the contest started with Whittier getting a free throw on the technical foul call and possession of the ball.

Despite that start, the Leos put together a 31-29 lead at the half and extended it to as many as nine with six minutes left in the final half.

The Leos still led by seven with three minutes left, and by five with a minute to go in regulation time, but some costly turnovers in the late going enabled Whittier to tie the game at 58-58 on George Hightower's free throw in the final second.

From there the two teams traded hoops for three overtime periods, Tim Gillette hitting some key baskets for the Leopards and Wyatt Sweeney clicking for the Poets.

Turnovers finally hurt La Verne again, as a couple errant passes in the fourth OT enabled Whittier to forge a six-point advantage and hold on for the victory.

Gillette wound up with 19 for La Verne and had 12 rebounds. Dwight Washington added 16 in a losing cause and had 13 boards. Whittier's Jim Preston topped all scorers with 20 markers, while Teammate Sweeney came off the bench to net 16.

The even nature of the game was clearly reflected in the statistics. Whittier had a narrow edge in rebounds, 59-58, and free throws made, eight to six. The Poets shot 39.5 percent from the field as compared to 38 percent for La Verne, while L.V. had 20 turnovers to Whittier's 17.

La Verne, now 5-6 on the season, will be back home this weekend, as the Leos will host the University of Alaska at 8 p.m. Saturday night at the Supertent.

Alaska downed host Chico State, 62-56, Tuesday to win the tournament championship.

Air is all around us, and it extends upward for many miles as the earth's atmosphere. It is a mixture of invisible gases and water vapor.

The most important gases are nitrogen and oxygen.

We usually do not notice its weight, yet it does have a definite weight.

Scientists have weighed it. The figures they have worked out may amaze you. A cubic foot of air at sea level weighs only about one ounce. But the total weight of all the air around the world is more than 5 quadrillion (5 followed by 15 zeros) tons!

So much air is in the atmosphere above us that it presses down on the earth with a pressure of nearly 15 pounds on every square inch.

The column of air pressing down on your shoulders weighs about 2,000 pounds.

You do not feel this great force because you are supported by an equal pressure of air from all sides. If you climb a high mountain the air becomes lighter. There's less above you to press down.

Here's wonderful news! A pocket radio, camera, World Almanac globe or other fine prize will be awarded to the first youngster sending in a question used here. Send your question and your age to Johnny Wonder, (c/o this newspaper), Box 1335 (DA), Santa Cruz, CA 95061.

23 performances

Ballet Theater sets Los Angeles season

The American Ballet Theater will present 23 performances from Feb. 16 through March 7 in the Pavilion of the Los Angeles Music Center.

Among the principal dancers will be Mikhail Baryshnikov, Karena Brock, Erik Bruhn, Fernando Bujones, Eleanor d'Antuono, Vladimir Gelvan, Cynthia Gregory, Gelsey Kirkland, Ted Kivitt, Natalia Makarova, Bonnie Mathis, Ivan Nagy, Rudolf Nureyev, Terry Orr, Marcos Paredes, John Prinz, Martine van Hamel, Sallie Wilson and Gayle Young.

Directors are Lucia Chase and Oliver Smith, with associate director Antony Tudor.

Rudolf Nureyev has staged the full-length "Raymonda" for evenings of Feb. 16, 17 and 18 and the matinee of Feb. 18.

On Friday evening, Feb. 20, the bill will be "La Bayadere," the "Le Corsaire" pas de deux, the local premiere of "The Leaves Are Fading" and "Fancy Free."

"Swan Lake" is slated for Saturday matinee and evening, Feb. 21. On Sunday evening, Feb. 22, "Gemini" will be danced with the "Le Corsaire" pas de deux, "Pillar of Fire" and "Shadowplay."

An all - Stravinsky program begins the second week of the run on the evenings of Feb. 23 and 24 with "Petrouchka," "Le Baiser de la Fee," and "Les Noces." The Tuesday matinee of Feb. 24 will see "La Bayadere," "Jardin aux Lilas" and "The Leaves Are Fading."

On the evening of Feb. 25, the bill will be "Gemini," the "Don Quixote" pas de deux, "At Midnight" and "Shadowplay."

The full-length "La Sylphide" will be staged Saturday matinee and evening, Feb. 28. The curtain-raiser at the matinee will be "Fancy Free," and, in the evening, "Las Hermanas" in a local premiere.

For Sunday evening, Feb. 29, the bill consists of "Las Hermanas," "Jardin aux Lilas," the Diana & Acteon" pas de deux and "Shadowplay."

The final week of the engagement starts March 1 with a sold-out performance to the Golden Key Foundation at 7:30 of "Las Hermanas," the "Le Corsaire" pas de deux, "At Midnight" and "Shadowplay." On the evening of March 2, the bill will be "La Bayadere," the "Grand Pas Classique" pas de deux, "Pillar of Fire" and "Fancy Free."

The full-length "Giselle" will be performed at both the matinee and evening performances of Wednesday, March 3. The Friday matinee of March 5 will have "The Leaves Are Fading," the local premiere of "Hamlet: Connotations," the "Don Quixote" pas de deux, and the as-yet-untitled new ballet by Twyla Tharp, danced to Haydn's Symphony No. 82.

"Swan Lake" returns for the Saturday matinee of March 6. ABT's first Gala Performance in Los Angeles takes place that evening, with casts and programs to be announced.

The engagement closes Sunday evening, March 7, with a performance of "The Leaves Are Fading," "Hamlet: Connotations," "Grand Pas Classique" and the new Tharp Ballet.

Mail orders are now being accepted at the Music Center ticket office.

Author sued for divorce

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Mickey Spillane, author of a series of blood and guts detective novels, has been sued for divorce by his actress wife, Shari.

In the Los Angeles Superior Court suit, Mrs. Spillane cited irreconcilable differences Monday as the reason for seeking an end to her 11-year marriage to the 57-year-old author

They have no children.

Gulls abort jet takeoff

TEL AVIV, Israel (AP) — An El Al cargo plane taking off on a training flight flew into a flock of birds and had to make an emergency landing, airport officials said today. The five-man crew was unhurt.

Maintenance men repairing the Boeing 707 following the collision Monday found the bodies of hundreds of mangled seagulls in one of the four engines, officials said. The plane's wings also were damaged.

The gulls, attracted by the Tel Aviv garbage disposal plant near Ben-Gurion Airport, have been considered a safety risk for years. The plant is being moved away from the flight path.

BAREFOOT IN ONTARIO — Nedra Volz and Shun Fesler share a laugh in the Gallery Theater production of "Barefoot in the Park." The Neil Simon comedy opens at 8 p.m. Friday, to play Fridays and Saturdays for several weekends. The theater is at C Street and Lemon Avenue, Ontario. Reservations can be made at 982-5357.

SGV Symphony plans auditions for youth

The San Gabriel Valley Symphony Association will hold its annual Young Artist Auditions for scholarships and awards orchestral for instrumentalists at Citrus College at 10 a.m. Jan. 31.

The event is open to students residing in Los Angeles County who have been recommended by a private instructor or school music supervisor. They will be adjudicated by well-known music educators and performers.

Students in the senior and junior divisions, ages 16 through 25, and 12 through 15 respectively, will compete for scholarship and achievement awards. The senior division first place winner will receive $300 and an opportunity to perform with the symphony on Feb. 28. Other winners in both categories will receive achievement award certificates.

Limiting the 1976 auditions to instrumentalists is a departure by the San Gabriel Valley Symphony music committee.

"We are experimenting with a plan to alternate competition for instrumentalists one year, and pianists the next year," said Mrs. Murray Mickelson, music chairman.

"By doing so, we are able to raise the amount of the scholarship award," she said, "and contestants have an opportunity to perform an entire concerto or standard work for solo instrument and orchestra."

Application deadline is Jan. 17. Further information can be obtained at (213) 335-1574 or (213) 963-2015.

Monkees Show at Disneyland

Stars of television's Monkees Show, Woody Herman and his band and other stars will be featured on the stages of Disneyland Friday and Saturday.

Tomorrowland Stage will offer the Monkees Show, starring Mickey Dolenz, David Jones, Tommy Boyce and Bobby Hart, at 8 and 10 p.m., along with the Jimmy Castor Bunch and the comedy duo of Skiles and Henderson.

Woody Herman and his band will appear on Main Street's Plaza Gardens stage both nights from 8 to midnight, offering big band sounds.

Guests may also enjoy "America on Parade" twice each day when the pageant will be presented at 2 and 9 p.m. on Main Street, U.S.A. This is a colorful, larger-than-life salute to the nation's 200th birthday, featuring more than 150 "People of America" and 50 giant parade units.

Disneyland will be open from 9 a.m. to midnight during last two days of its Yuletide season, with the park returning to its regular schedule on Sunday. Hours for the remainder of the month are 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Wednesday through Friday and 10 a.m. to 7 p.m. on weekends, except 9 a.m. to 7 p.m. on Jan. 31. Disneyland will be closed on Mondays and Tuesdays.

DMV seeks linguists

SACRAMENTO (AP) — More than 100 people who speak Arabic, Armenian, Chinese, Filipino, Korean, Japanese, Portuguese or Spanish are sought for new jobs with the state Department of Motor Vehicles.

Herman Sillas, DMV director, said Monday that DMV is looking people who can speak at least one of the eight languages.

Sillas said they will be hired to deal with the 412,000 non-English speaking persons who visit DMV field offices each year.
